REDS STIFFEN, STEP UP AIR WAR

House Approves Record Tax Boost

Measure Sent To Senate By 233-160 Vote

Bill Ups Income Levy 12½ Per Cent

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The House today approved a record-breaking $7,200,000,000 tax increase, including a 12½ per cent boost in individual income taxes.

The measure, largest single revenue bill ever to come before Congress, now goes to the Senate, where the Finance Committee plans to open hearings next week.

The vote on final passage of the bill was 233 to 160. It came after administration backers beat down, 220 to 171, a Republican move to send the bill back to committee.

On the motion to recommit, 15 Republicans and one independent joined 204 Democrats in opposition. Only one Democrat, Garmatz of Maryland, voted with 170 Republicans to recommit the bill.

On final passage, 36 Republicans and one independent joined with 196 Democrats in support of the bill, while 11 Democrats and 149 Republicans opposed it.

$2.8 Billion From Individuals

Here is where the government would collect the additional money:

Individuals, $2,847,000,000.

Corporate income and excess profits taxes, $2,855,000,000.

Excise taxes, $1,252,000,000.

Miscellaneous changes in the revenue laws, $245,000,000.

The bill, with two post-Korea tax bills passed previously, increases taxes by a total of $17,000,000,000.

It sped through the House in two days under procedure which prevented individual members from offering amendments. The recommendations of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee prevailed in every respect.

Republicans in general condemned the increase as inequitable and unnecessarily large. They argued that spending should be cut drastically before more taxes were piled on the people.

Democrats rejoined that the bill was fair and that every section reflected the judgment of a majority of the Ways and Means unit.

"Ceiling" Reached—Doughton Says

While Rep. Doughton (D-NC), chairman of that committee, insisted that the additional revenue is urgently needed to pay the bills of the nation's expanding preparedness drive, he said also that he thinks the $7,200,000,000 increase is about all the economy can stand at this time.

Big as the bill is, it represents less than half the $16,500,000,000 in additional taxes President Truman called for last winter. Later, as collections from present rates came in at an unexpectedly large volume, he lowered his sights to a $10,000,000,000 boost.

Over a year's operation, individual income taxpayers would pay 12½ per cent or one-eighth more than they do at present. But since the bill sets the effective date of the increase on next Sept. 1, thus applying to only one-third of 1951 income, the increase in tax liability this year would be only four per cent.

Airliner With 40 Aboard Vanishes

DAKAR, French West Africa, June 22 (AP)—A Pan American Constellation bound for New York lost its bearings and vanished with 40 persons early today over a damp and jungled area at the base of the African hump, 500 miles north of the equator.

French, Liberian and American fliers joined in a hunt for it. Native tribesmen fanned out aground in the search.

The four-engined craft, on a regular run from Johannesburg, South Africa, carried 31 passengers and a crew of nine.

It disappeared in drizzly weather about 2:45 a. m. (10:45 p. m. Eastern Standard Time Thursday) while it was seeking Roberts Field, the airport from Monrovia, Liberia.

A regular stop had been made in the darkness at Accra, a gold coast city 800 miles east of Monrovia.

(A dispatch from Accra reported the plane had landed at Roberts Field and then took off for Dakar, 650 miles up the coast, but radioed there was interference on the radio beacon and turned back to Roberts Field. A blackout came after the plane asked for landing instructions, according to Accra sources. The dispatch said a magneto gave trouble on the way north from Johannesburg, but was changed at Accra.)

Ridgway Backed MacArthur Plan To Use Chiang Troops, Official Message Discloses

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—An official message disclosed today that Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway supported Gen. Douglas MacArthur last December in urging an immediate invasion of Red China by Chinese Nationailst troops based on Formosa.

It was for publicly advocating this step—along with a naval blockade of China and the bombing of enemy bases in Manchuria—that President Truman fired Gen. Douglas MacArthur last April 11.

"ADMITS" GUILT—Archbishop Joszef Groesz, successor to Cardinal Mindzenty as head of the Roman Catholic Church in Hungary, yesterday pleaded guilty to plotting against Hungary's Communist government.

Gen. Ridgway at the time was field commander in Korea. He succeeded Gen. MacArthur as supreme commander in the Far East.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) put the Ridgway message into the record at the Senate inquiry looking into the dismissal of Gen. MacArthur and the whole broad range of the administration's Far East policies.

Ridgway said he and Gen. MacArthur agreed that Nationalist forces under Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek should be permitted "to operate without delay and without limitation against the mainland of South China."

Wiley Hits 'Neutralizing' Order

The Nationalists have been "neutralized" on Formosa since last June 26 when President Truman dispatched the U. S. 7th Fleet to guard the island from invasion by Chinese Reds and to prevent the Nationalists from invading the China mainland.

In another development at today's inquiry, Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) charged in effect that Mr. Truman's "neutralizing" order led to the entry of Red China into the Korean war.

Wiley said that after the President "announced our policy of blockading Formosa and blockading China, the best Chinese (Communist armies were moved up north and went into conflict in Korea against our troops."

Until the Chinese Communist entered the fight last fall, American troops and their allies had driven the North Korean Reds clear back across the 38th parallel, the starting point of the original invasion, and across the Yalu river in Manchuria.

Wiley dropped his charge into the hearing as the Senate inquiry committee received testimony from its next-to-last scheduled witness, Maj. Gen. Davis G. Barr.

Barr Opposes Using Nationalists

Barr was former commander of the U. S. 7th Division in Korea and served as chief of an American military mission to China after World War II. He is now commanding general of the armored center at Fort Knox, Ky.

Barr agreed with Wiley that the Chinese Reds moved their best armies into Korea after President Truman sent the 7th Fleet to patrol off Formosa.

But he said he does not believe the MacArthur-Ridgway proposal for using the Chinese Nationalists against the China mainland should be carried out now.

"I don't think we should do it," Barr said. "I mean the amount of support required would be terrific."

Church Leader 'Admits' Plotting Against Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 22 (AP)—Archbishop Joszef Groesz and three of his associates poured out hours-long confessions at the opening of their trial today on charges that they plotted with American help to overthrow Hungary's Communist regime by armed revolt.

The 64-year-old Archbishop, successor of Cardinal Mindszenty as head of the Roman Catholic Church in Hungary, and eight co-defendants went on trial in the same courtroom and before the same presiding judge and prosecutor who tried the Cardinal and American Businessman Robert A. Vogeler.

With deliberate calm, Archbishop Groesz testified he gave the American legation a written promise he was willing to become the new chief of state in Hungary and even submitted to the Americans a list of men he proposed to take into his government.

His three co-defendants who admitted guilt today testified in just as cool and collected a fashion.

(Archbishop Groesz apparently was arrested about the middle of May. His trial and confession appear to have been prepared in an unusually short time. Vogeler, convicted on a spy charge in February, 1950, and released last April after serving 17 months of his 15-year sentence, has given the clearest report of how these confessions are obtained. He described his own confession as "rubbish." He said he was slapped, questioned for hours without rest, food or sleep and was subjected to such physical, moral and mental pressure that his will to resist was gradually worn away. He said no drugs or injections were used.

(Western diplomats in Vienna said the trial apparently is part of the steady Communist campaign to undermine the Roman Catholic Church.)

Experts Confident New U. S. Liner Will Set Speed Record

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., June 22 (AP)—American ship experts are confident the superliner United States, which will be christened here tomorrow, will snatch the transatlantic speed record from Britain's Queen Mary.

The United States Lines, which will operate the new ship, and the U. S. Maritime Administration modestly rate her speed at 30 knots. But it's a good bet she'll do much better than that.

She'll have to do better than that to capture the blue ribbon from the Queen Mary, which won it in 1938 by racing from New York to the English Channel entrance in three days, 20 hours and 42 minutes for an average speed of 31.69 knots.

Many secret defense features have been built into the 990-foot United States which will make her readily convertible into a transport capable of carrying 14,000 troops.

Jail Sentence Stay Is Denied Top U. S. Reds

Justice Jackson Refuses Request

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Justice Jackson of the Supreme Court late today refused to stay prison sentences of the 11 U. S. Communist Party leaders who were convicted of conspiracy.

The refusal clears the way for the Justice Department to move for early imprisonment of the Red leaders. They could be locked up about July 1.

The 11 asked Jackson to stay the prison sentences until the Supreme Court could act next fall on a request that it reconsider its June 4 decision affirming their conviction. The court is now in summer recess.

Attorneys Granted Stay

While Jackson turned down the stay request made by the 11 Red leaders, he granted a stay to six of their attorneys. The attorneys were sentenced to jail by Judge Harold R. Medina for contempt of court. The sentences resulted from their conduct at the New York trial of the Red officials.

The attorneys may now remain free under bond until the Supreme Court acts on the request that it reconsider its June 4 decision.

Jackson said in a memorandum giving his decision that it was "beyond belief" that the full Supreme Court now would change its views and grant the Red leaders a reargument in next fall's term.

The Justice noted that he allowed their release in bail last September "because important constitutional questions were involved in their case which it appeared this court should decide."

Face Five-Year Sentences

He added, however, that "the considerations which warranted a stay and bail last September are no longer present."

The Supreme Court's mandate (order) in the Communist's case is expected to be issued June 30. The government undoubtedly will move at once to have the convicted men imprisoned.

Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the U. S. Communist Party, and nine other members of the "American politburo" are under sencence of five years. The 11th defendant, Robert G. Thompson, drew a three-year term in view of his Pacific war record. Each of the 11 was fined $10,000.

Fla. Governor Is Subpoenaed By Crime Probe

MIAMI, Fla., June 22 (AP)—Senate crime probers today subpoenaed Gov. Fuller Warren to appear before them in Washington July 9 to tell what he knows about Florida's crime and whether gamblers contributed to his election.

The announcement came at the end of a two-day hearing of the Senate Crime Committee here, and touched off a cheering demonstration by spectators.

It was the first time a state chief executive has been summoned for a mandatory appearance. Warren declined an invitation to appear at the Miami hearing which ended with the handing of the subpoena to Deputy U. S. Marshal Jack L. Peoples for service on the Governor.

In Tallahassee, the Governor was reported still resting at a "famous beach" but his office refused any other clue to his whereabouts. Nor would his staff hazard a guess whether he would choose to honor the subpoena and appear in Washington.

The subpoena will be mailed to a U. S. marshal at Pensacola for service upon Warren.

Earlier today, Warren sent a telegram to Sen. O'Conor (D-Md), committee chairman, answering point by point the six lines of questioning O'Conor said the committee wanted the Governor to answer.

O'Conor waved the telegram aloft, said it "had the Governor's name on it but that's the only word we have received from him."

"The only course left open to us is to take other means to secure from the Governor the information he possesses. Accordingly I will issue a subpoena for Gov. Fuller Warren to appear in Washington." The date of the hearing is being set for July 9, O'Conor stated.

Warren, in his telegram, defended his record and declared "no gambler or gangster made any contribution to my campaign so far as I know."

U. S. Apologizes For Arrest Of Pakistan Officials' Wives

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., June 22. (AP)—The United States apologized to Pakistan today for the arrest of three of its United Nations delegation's womenfolk by New Rochelle, N. Y., police who mistook them for gypsy shoplifters.

In a letter to Prof. A. S. Bokhari, head of the Pakistan delegation, Ernest Gross, acting chief U. S. delegate, said the authorities of New Rochelle had asked the United States mission (to the U. N.) to transmit "their sincere regrets for the humiliation and inconvenience caused them."

Bokhari protested last week to the U. N. and to the United States that the women had been rudely handled by New Rochelle plain clothesmen June 11 while they were shopping at a branch of a New York department store.

The women are R. S. Chhatari and Mrs. A. M. Farooq, wives of Pakistani diplomats at the U. N, and Mrs. Chhatari's daughter, 14. They were dressed in native costumes with flowing scarves. The police said they thought they were gypsies.

Nurse Rests After 13 Days In Mountains

Evangeline Lorimor, 21, shows her father, W. M. Lorimor, the swollen feet which were the worst effects of her two weeks of wandering in the Great Smoky Mountains wilds near Sevierville, Tenn. She is recuperating in a hospital there.

Nurse Survives 13 Days In Woods Without Any Food

SEVIERVILLE, Tenn., June 22 (AP)—Evangeline Lorimor, a young nurse who has practiced fasting, related today that she stumbled through a smoky mountain wilderness for the past 13 days without food.

Found after a widespread search, she told newsmen from her hospital bed a fabulous account of how she survived in the awesome Great Smoke Mountains National Park with few ill effects.

The 21-year-old religious-minded nurse said the only things that passed her lips during the ordeal were water from mountain streams and two sour huckleberries. She lost 18 pounds.

Disappeared June 8

She disappeared June 8 after setting out from her camp site to hike up spectacular Bunker Hill deep in the park. As dusk fell, she said, she found herself lost in the dense, rock-strewn thickets.

During the first week, "food didn't bother me," she said. "Why is everybody so interested in food. It's not so important. Just experimenting. I had done without it for as long as a week before."

But the second week she was lost, "my stomach was sore on my backbone . . . I dreamed about food."

Saw Only One Bear

"I found nice places to sleep two nights on soft leaves under an overhanging rock," she said. But sometimes she was drenched by hard rains—"I just huddled up and was miserable.

Although the park is known for its bears, she saw only one. The most vicious attack came from insects and briars, and she blistered her feet. The hospital said he was in very good condition.

At last she saw a tiny trail twisting through the brush. As nightfall neared yesterday, she heard a cow bell tinkle in the distance and followed it to the house of a ranger. She was 10 miles from the camp site.

Five Argentine Officers Charged With Revolt Plot

BUENOS AIRES, June 22 (AP)—The Army Ministry announced tonight that five Argentine army officers had been arrested on charges of plotting a revolt against the government of President Juan D. Peron.

The ministry announcement climaxed eight day of scare headlines in pro-government newspapers on reports that a plot was afoot to overthrow the government and assassinate Peron, his wife and other high officials.

The ministry said the five were arrested in connection with an investigation of those participating in "a plan to create confusion and disrupt public order" which "had been disclosed in the newspapers."

USAF Academy Bill Introduced

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—An administration bill to set up a $148,000,000 Air Force academy at a site yet to be selected was introduced today by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee.

Although Vinson's bill provides only $20,000,000 for the initial outlay, Assistant Secretary of Defense Daniel K. Edwards estimated that the final cost of the academy would be around $148,000,000.

Edwards said in a letter to Vinson that an accurate estimate of construction costs would be made "only after full investigation of the actual site selected for development and a determination of the type of architecture and materials to be used in the construction."

Edwards also said it was estimated that the cost of operating the academy for the first year "at limited strength" would be about $5,000,000.

N. And W. Train Wrecks

LOUISA, Ky., June 22 (AP)—A Norfolk and Western Railway coal train split a switch on the Tug River two miles east of Louisa today, derailing 12 loaded cars and tearing up 50 feet of track.

Striking Seamen And Ship Owners Reach Agreement

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—The CIO Maritime Union reached agreement with Atlantic and Gulf coast shipping companies tonight at the end of the seventh day of its work stoppage.

The agreement is based on a 40-hour work week at sea, to be placed in effect next Dec. 16.

Two other CIO unions involved in the tieup that hit American flag shipping—the American Radio Association and the National Marine Engineers Beneficial Association—are to meet with operators tomorrow.

Joseph Curran, president of the 52,000-member NMU, said he believed the agreement would set a pattern for the NMEBA, which has 7,000 members, and the ARA with 1,400 members.

Because ships cannot sail without a radio operator, resumption of activity in ports up and down the affected coasts must await the ARA's agreement.

Curran said, however that NMU operations would be back to normal within 24 hours.

The settlement, with its provisions retroactive to last Saturday, grants an eight per cent across-the-board wage increase.

Clyde M. Mills, assistant director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said this brings the total wage increase since Jan. 1950, to 14.38 per cent.

The agreement is subject to approval by the Wage Stabilization Board.

The settlement was announced a few minutes after negotiators for both sides had huddled separately for nearly three hours.

New Anti-Sub Weapon

BALTIMORE, June 22 (AP)—The Navy's latest aerial anti-submarine weapon, the Marlin Flying Boat, was flown for the first time today by Manufacturer Glenn L. Martin Co.

Martin officials said the plane, known as the P5M-1, is one of the most completely electronically equipped airplanes ever built.

Rep. Cannon, 72, Apparent Winner Over Rep. Phillips, 63, In House Corridor Fight

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Two veteran congressmen staged a brief but bloody fistfight in a House corridor today.

The apparent winner: Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo), 72, chairman of the Appropriations Committee. He didn't have a mark on him. His opponent, Rep. John Phillips (R-Calif), 63, suffered a lip cut which bled profusely but turned out not to be serious.

Phillips went into seclusion for a while but appeared in the House chamber several hours later, wearing a small piece of adhesive tape over his wound. He told reporters:

"Out where I come from, when a man calls you a liar and then something else, he's supposed to smile. He (Cannon) didn't smile, so I slapped him. It didn't hurt him. Then he got me with a left."

The two had been arguing about the appointment of House conferees to meet with senators and seek agreement on the independent offices appropriation bill.

An eyewitness, Rep. John Taber (R-NY), said Cannon called Phillips a name. Phillips "started after Cannon" and then:

"Cannon struck him and I grabbed Cannon and got between them before anything else happened."

Cannon wouldn't admit any blow was struck but told inquiring newsmen: "I only act in self-defense."

Phillips said his wound was only a scratch—although a fellow congressman said his white shirt was covered with blood after the encounter.

Phillips' comment: "The less said about it, the better. The only damage is to my self-respect for getting pushed into a thing like that."

Allied Planes Win Two New Battles In Sky

Reports Red Drive Near Accentuated

TOKYO, Saturday, June 23 (AP)—Red planes grew bolder and Red ground defenses bristled north of Seoul Friday. A new Red air raider made a frontline rocket attack today.

The developments accented reports that the Communists were getting ready to launch a new limited offensive on June 25, first anniversary of the Korean war.

Field dispatches reported a marked stiffening of Red defenses in a 50-mile arc north of Seoul where the Reds hurled back an Allied armored spearhead and threw up a heavy artillery barrage.

Red jets challenged Allied jets Friday for the fifth day in the last six. In two new sky battles near the Manchurian border 55 Russian-type MIG-15 jets tangled with 34 F-86 Sabre jets. The Reds lost two planes and had three damaged.

This brought Red losses in five days to 11 destroyed, one probably destroyed and 21 damaged, and Allied losses two destroyed and two missing.

Red planes also became bolder far south of the Manchurian border.

A Red plane bombed Seoul and its airport Friday. The Pyongyang radio said the bomber hit an Allied truck convoy and the Seoul railway yards. Seven freight cars were set afire, the broadcast said.

Two bombers dropped fire bombs and also rocketed and machine-gunned Allied positions for two hours early Friday near Chorwon.

At 1:30 a. m. today a plane fired two rockets in the Chorwon area.

The pre-dawn attacks Friday marked the first reported Red use of fire bombs against Allied troops. The raiders pressed the attack by the light of parachute flares despite intense Allied antiaircraft fire.

Prior to the "MIG Alley" dogfights, 18 F-80 Shooting Stars cratered the Sinuiju airfield just across the Yalu River from Manchuria. It was the most important of seven Red fields in Korea bombed Thursday night and Friday.

Field dispatches said the Allies appeared to have reached the Chinese Red main outpost line in Western Korea.

AP Correspondent Stan Carter said the new Communist defense line extended from the Kaesong area across the Chorwon-Subyon lateral road then north to Pyonggang.

Red screening forces hurled back United Nations armored spearheads and held their ground while Allied artillery rocked the area. At least a Red battalion was believed in the hill masses overlooking the 26 mile stretch of road from Chorwon to Sibyon.

The western area, leading south to Seoul, is the least rugged of all Korean sectors and therefore better for tank warfare and massed assaults.

House Approves Record Tax Boost

Measure Sent To Senate By 233-160 Vote

Bill Ups Income Levy 12½ Per Cent

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The House today approved a record-breaking $7,200,000,000 tax increase, including a 12½ per cent boost in individual income taxes.

The measure, largest single revenue bill ever to come before Congress, now goes to the Senate, where the Finance Committee plans to open hearings next week.

With deliberate calm, Archbishop Groesz testified he gave the American legation a written promise he was willing to become the new chief of state in Hungary and even submitted to the Americans a list of men he proposed to take into his government.

His three co-defendants who admitted guilt today testified in just as cool and collected a fashion.

(Archbishop Groesz apparently was arrested about the middle of May. His trial and confession appear to have been prepared in an unusually short time. Vogeler, convicted on a spy charge in February, 1950, and released last April after serving 17 months of his 15-year-sentence, has given the clearest report of how these confessions are obtained. He described his own confession as "rubbish." He said he was slapped, questioned for hours without rest, food or sleep and was subjected to such physical, moral and mental pressure that his will to resist was gradually worn away. He said no drugs or injections were used.

(Western diplomats in Vienna said the trial apparently is part of the steady Communist campaign to undermine the Roman Catholic Church.)

Experts Confident New U. S. Liner Will Set Speed Record

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., June 22 (AP)—American ship experts are confident the superliner United States, which will be christened here tomorrow, will snatch the transatlantic speed record from Britain's Queen Mary.

The United States Lines, which will operate the new ship, and the U. S. Maritime Administration modestly rate her speed at 30 knots. But it's a good bet she'll do much better than that.

She'll have to do better than that to capture the blue ribbon from the Queen Mary, which won it in 1938 by racing from New York to the English Channel entrance in three days, 20 hours and 42 minutes for an average speed of 31.69 knots.

Many secret defense features have been built into the 990-foot United States which will make her readily convertible into a transport capable of carrying 14,000 troops.

Jail Sentence Stay Is Denied Top U. S. Reds

Justice Jackson Refuses Request

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Justice Jackson of the Supreme Court late today refused to stay prison sentences of the 11 U. S. Communist Party leaders who were convicted of conspiracy.

The refusal clears the way for the Justice Department to move for early imprisonment of the Red leaders. They could be locked up about July 1.

The 11 asked Jackson to stay the prison sentences until the Supreme Court could act next fall on a request that it reconsider its June 4 decision affirming their conviction. The court is now in summer recess.

Attorneys Granted Stay

While Jackson turned down the stay request made by the 11 Red leaders, he granted a stay to six of their attorneys. The attorneys were sentenced to jail by Judge Harold R. Medina for contempt of court. The sentences resulted from their conduct at the New York trial of the Red officials.

The attorneys may now remain free under bond until the Supreme Court acts on the request that it reconsider its June 4 decision.

Jackson said in a memorandum giving his decision that it was "beyond belief" that the full Supreme Court now would change its views and grant the Red leaders a reargument in next fall's term.

The Justice noted that he allowed their release in bail last September "because important constitutional questions were involved in their case which it appeared this court should decide."

Face Five-Year Sentences

He added, however, that "the considerations which warranted a stay and bail last September are no longer present."

The Supreme Court's mandate (order) in the Communist's case is expected to be issued June 30. The government undoubtedly will move at once to have the convicted men imprisoned.

Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the U. S. Communist Party, and nine other members of the "American politburo" are under sencence of five years. The 11th defendant, Robert G. Thompson, drew a three-year term in view of his Pacific war record. Each of the 11 was fined $10,000.

Fla. Governor Is Subpoenaed By Crime Probe

MIAMI, Fla., June 22 (AP)—Senate crime probers today subpoenaed Gov. Fuller Warren to appear before them in Washington July 9 to tell what he knows about Florida's crime and whether gamblers contributed to his election.

The announcement came at the end of a two-day hearing of the Senate Crime Committee here, and touched off a cheering demonstration by spectators.

It was the first time a state chief executive has been summoned for a mandatory appearance. Warren declined an invitation to appear at the Miami hearing which ended with the handing of the subpoena to Deputy U. S. Marshal Jack L. Peoples for service on the Governor.

In Tallahassee, the Governor was reported still resting at a "famous beach" but his office refused any other clue to his whereabouts. Nor would his staff hazard a guess whether he would choose to honor the subpoena and appear in Washington.

The subpoena will be mailed to a U. S. marshal at Pensacola for service upon Warren.

Earlier today, Warren sent a telegram to Sen. O'Conor (D-Md), committee chairman, answering point by point the six lines of questioning O'Conor said the committee wanted the Governor to answer.

O'Conor waved the telegram aloft, said it "had the Governor's name on it but that's the only word we have received from him."

"The only course left open to us is to take other means to secure from the Governor the information he possesses. Accordingly I will issue a subpoena for Gov. Fuller Warren to appear in Washington." The date of the hearing is being set for July 9, O'Conor stated.

Warren, in his telegram, defended his record and declared "no gambler or gangster made any contribution to my campaign so far as I know."

Nurse Rests After 13 Days In Mountains

Evangeline Lorimor, 21, shows her father, W. M. Lorimor, the swollen feet which were the worst effects of her two weeks of wandering in the Great Smoky Mountains wilds near Sevierville, Tenn. She is recuperating in a hospital there.

Nurse Survives 13 Days In Woods Without Any Food

SEVIERVILLE, Tenn., June 22 (AP)—Evangeline Lorimor, a young nurse who has practiced fasting, related today that she stumbled through a smoky mountain wilderness for the past 13 days without food.

Found after a widespread search, she told newsmen from her hospital bed a fabulous account of how she survived in the awesome Great Smoke Mountains National Park with few ill effects.

The 21-year-old religious-minded nurse said the only things that passed her lips during the ordeal were water from mountain streams and two sour huckleberries. She lost 18 pounds.

Disappeared June 8

She disappeared June 8 after setting out from her camp site to hike up spectacular Bunker Hill deep in the park. As dusk fell, she said, she found herself lost in the dense, rock-strewn thickets.

During the first week, "food didn't bother me," she said. "Why is everybody so interested in food. It's not so important. Just experimenting. I had done without it for as long as a week before."

But the second week she was lost, "my stomach was sore on my backbone . . . I dreamed about food."

Saw Only One Bear

"I found nice places to sleep two nights on soft leaves under an overhanging rock," she said. But sometimes she was drenched by hard rains—"I just huddled up and was miserable.

Although the park is known for its bears, she saw only one. The most vicious attack came from insects and briars, and she blistered her feet. The hospital said he was in very good condition.

At last she saw a tiny trail twisting through the brush. As nightfall neared yesterday, she heard a cow bell tinkle in the distance and followed it to the house of a ranger. She was 10 miles from the camp site.

Five Argentine Officers Charged With Revolt Plot

BUENOS AIRES, June 22 (AP)—The Army Ministry announced tonight that five Argentine army officers had been arrested on charges of plotting a revolt against the government of President Juan D. Peron.

The ministry announcement climaxed eight day of scare headlines in pro-government newspapers on reports that a plot was afoot to overthrow the government and assassinate Peron, his wife and other high officials.

The ministry said the five were arrested in connection with an investigation of those participating in "a plan to create confusion and disrupt public order" which "had been disclosed in the newspapers."

USAF Academy Bill Introduced

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—An administration bill to set up a $148,000,000 Air Force academy at a site yet to be selected was introduced today by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee.

Although Vinson's bill provides only $20,000,000 for the initial outlay, Assistant Secretary of Defense Daniel K. Edwards estimated that the final cost of the academy would be around $148,000,000.

Edwards said in a letter to Vinson that an accurate estimate of construction costs would be made "only after full investigation of the actual site selected for development and a determination of the type of architecture and materials to be used in the construction."

Edwards also said it was estimated that the cost of operating the academy for the first year "at limited strength" would be about $5,000,000.

N. And W. Train Wrecks

LOUISA, Ky., June 22 (AP)—A Norfolk and Western Railway coal train split a switch on the Tug River two miles east of Louisa today, derailing 12 loaded cars and tearing up 50 feet of track.

Striking Seamen And Ship Owners Reach Agreement

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—The CIO Maritime Union reached agreement with Atlantic and Gulf coast shipping companies tonight at the end of the seventh day of its work stoppage.

The agreement is based on a 40-hour work week at sea, to be placed in effect next Dec. 16.

Two other CIO unions involved in the tieup that hit American flag shipping—the American Radio Association and the National Marine Engineers Beneficial Association—are to meet with operators tomorrow.

Joseph Curran, president of the 52,000-member NMU, said he believed the agreement would set a pattern for the NMEBA, which has 7,000 members, and the ARA with 1,400 members.

Because ships cannot sail without a radio operator, resumption of activity in ports up and down the affected coasts must await the ARA's agreement.

Curran said, however that NMU operations would be back to normal within 24 hours.

The settlement, with its provisions retroactive to last Saturday, grants an eight per cent across-the-board wage increase.

Clyde M. Mills, assistant director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said this brings the total wage increase since Jan. 1950, to 14.38 per cent.

The agreement is subject to approval by the Wage Stabilization Board.

The settlement was announced a few minutes after negotiators for both sides had huddled separately for nearly three hours.

New Anti-Sub Weapon

BALTIMORE, June 22 (AP)—The Navy's latest aerial anti-submarine weapon, the Marlin Flying Boat, was flown for the first time today by Manufacturer Glenn L. Martin Co.

Martin officials said the plane, known as the P5M-1, is one of the most completely electronically equipped airplanes ever built.

Allied Planes Win Two New Battles In Sky

Reports Red Drive Near Accentuated

TOKYO, Saturday, June 23 (AP)—Red planes grew bolder and Red ground defenses bristled north of Seoul Friday. A new Red air raider made a frontline rocket attack today.

The developments accented reports that the Communists were getting ready to launch a new limited offensive on June 25, first anniversary of the Korean war.

Field dispatches reported a marked stiffening of Red defenses in a 50-mile arc north of Seoul where the Reds hurled back an Allied armored spearhead and threw up a heavy artillery barrage.

Red jets challenged Allied jets Friday for the fifth day in the last six. In two new sky battles near the Manchurian border 55 Russian-type MIG-15 jets tangled with 34 F-86 Sabre jets. The Reds lost two planes and had three damaged.

This brought Red losses in five days to 11 destroyed, one probably destroyed and 21 damaged, and Allied losses two destroyed and two missing.

Red planes also became bolder far south of the Manchurian border.

A Red plane bombed Seoul and its airport Friday. The Pyongyang radio said the bomber hit an Allied truck convoy and the Seoul railway yards. Seven freight cars were set afire, the broadcast said.

Two bombers dropped fire bombs and also rocketed and machine-gunned Allied positions for two hours early Friday near Chorwon.

At 1:30 a. m. today a plane fired two rockets in the Chorwon area.

The pre-dawn attacks Friday marked the first reported Red use of fire bombs against Allied troops. The raiders pressed the attack by the light of parachute flares despite intense Allied antiaircraft fire.

Prior to the "MIG Alley" dogfights, 18 F-80 Shooting Stars cratered the Sinuiju airfield just across the Yalu River from Manchuria. It was the most important of seven Red fields in Korea bombed Thursday night and Friday.

Field dispatches said the Allies appeared to have reached the Chinese Red main outpost line in Western Korea.

AP Correspondent Stan Carter said the new Communist defense line extended from the Kaesong area across the Chorwon-Subyon lateral road then north to Pyonggang.

Red screening forces hurled back United Nations armored spearheads and held their ground while Allied artillery rocked the area. At least a Red battalion was believed in the hill masses overlooking the 26 mile stretch of road from Chorwon to Sibyon.

The western area, leading south to Seoul, is the least rugged of all Korean sectors and therefore better for tank warfare and massed assaults.

U. S. Apologizes For Arrest Of Pakistan Officials' Wives

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., June 22. (AP)—The United States apologized to Pakistan today for the arrest of three of its United Nations delegation's womenfolk by New Rochelle, N. Y., police who mistook them for gypsy shoplifters.

In a letter to Prof. A. S. Bokhari, head of the Pakistan delegation, Ernest Gross, acting chief U. S. delegate, said the authorities of New Rochelle had asked the United States mission (to the U. N.) to transmit "their sincere regrets for the humiliation and inconvenience caused them."

Bokhari protested last week to the U. N. and to the United States that the women had been rudely handled by New Rochelle plain clothesmen June 11 while they were shopping at a branch of a New York department store.

The women are R. S. Chhatari and Mrs. A. M. Farooq, wives of Pakistani diplomats at the U. N, and Mrs. Chhatari's daughter, 14. They were dressed in native costumes with flowing scarves. The police said they thought they were gypsies.

Rep. Cannon, 72, Apparent Winner Over Rep. Phillips, 63, In House Corridor Fight

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Two veteran congressmen staged a brief but bloody fistfight in a House corridor today.

The apparent winner: Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo), 72, chairman of the Appropriations Committee. He didn't have a mark on him. His opponent, Rep. John Phillips (R-Calif), 63, suffered a lip cut which bled profusely but turned out not to be serious.

Phillips went into seclusion for a while but appeared in the House chamber several hours later, wearing a small piece of adhesive tape over his wound. He told reporters:

"Out where I come from, when a man calls you a liar and then something else, he's supposed to smile. He (Cannon) didn't smile, so I slapped him. It didn't hurt him. Then he got me with a left."

The two had been arguing about the appointment of House conferees to meet with senators and seek agreement on the independent offices appropriation bill.

An eyewitness, Rep. John Taber (R-NY), said Cannon called Phillips a name. Phillips "started after Cannon" and then:

"Cannon struck him and I grabbed Cannon and got between them before anything else happened."

Cannon wouldn't admit any blow was struck but told inquiring newsmen: "I only act in self-defense."

Phillips said his wound was only a scratch—although a fellow congressman said his white shirt was covered with blood after the encounter.

Phillips' comment: "The less said about it, the better. The only damage is to my self-respect for getting pushed into a thing like that."

Child Swimmers Barred By Britain

LONDON, June 22 (AP) — Florida water babies Bubba Tongay, five, and his sister Kathy, four, were tucked into a suburban hotel bed tonight under technical arrest.

That's as near as they'll get, British officials indicated, to the English Channel—at any rate from this side.

The children and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Tongay of Miami, Fla., were barred entry into Britain by immigration authorities at London airport following widespread protests over the Tongay's plans to send the two youngsters on a channel swim.

They were allowed to land under "technical custody," however, and spend the night in a nearby hotel. Immigration officials said this relaxation in the regulations was made because Mrs. Tongay and the children were tired after their flight from New York.

The officials announced the family will be put on a New York-bound plane tomorrow. They gave no reason for the ban except that it was made under the aliens order—which gives wide powers to refuse entry to foreigners.

The announcement that a British holiday camp firm had sponsored a channel swim for the two Tongay kids led to widespread protests in both America and Britain. Home Secretary Chuter Ede was asked in the Commons to bar the family, but he gave no such pledge at the time.

Three Boys, Horse Head For Wyoming

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., June 22 (AP)—Three youths with one horse shrugged off the "westward, whoa" advice of a policeman today and hit the trail for Wyoming.

The lads, one riding the horse and two afoot, said they had heard that Wyoming was offering big pay for sheepherders.

They identified themselves as Paul H. Ledwell, Jr., 22, Nokeville, Va.; Rip Turner, 16, Manassas, Va., and Ian Baird, 16, Asheville, N. C.

Police Chief Gus Hlavati of Palisades Interstate Park saw them as they crossed Bear Mountain bridge for the Appalachian Trail. He asked what was up.

They said they bought the horse, "Sorig," in Philadelphia on their way north to work at a Garrison, N. Y., dude ranch. Then they heard about Wyoming's opportunities and decided to head west like the pioneers of old.

They packed fishing tackle, hatchets, frying pans, a canvas shelter and some flour and coffee.

U. S. To Help Ecuador To Develop Resources

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—President Truman and Ecuadorean President Galo Plaza announced today a program designed to raise Ecuador's living standards and strengthen relations between the two countries.

And it was learned that the U. S. Import-Export Bank plans to announce a loan to Ecuador before the visiting President leaves Washington tomorrow night for New York.

In the agreement announced by the two presidents was a promise by the United States that it will work jointly with Ecuador to study that country's economic potentialities and means for developing its resources.

Bills Would Relax Auto Credit Terms

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—More liberal credit terms for car buyers are called for in both the Senate and House bills dealing with economic controls.

The Senate Banking Committee drafted a provision telling the Federal Reserve Board to relax Regulation W so new and used cars can be bought with down payments of one-third the purchase price and have the payments spread over 18 instead of the presently required 15 months.

The House bill contains the same terms for new car purchasers but calls for down payments of no more than 25 per cent of the cost of used cars and permits repayments over 18 months.

Truman Defends His Health Plan

BETHESDA, Md., June 22 (AP)—President Truman today challenged opponents of his compulsory health insurance plan to "come up with a better proposal, or even one that is almost as good."

If they do, Mr. Truman said, "I'll go along with them."

The President stated his position in an address dedicating the National Institute of Health's new clinical center in Bethesda, a suburb of Washington. Later he laid the cornerstone of the $60,000,000 structure.

"Medical care is for the people and not just for the doctors," Mr. Truman said in his prepared address. "Our objective must be to make the best modern medical care available to more and more people. I intend to keep right on working for that.

"Since 1945, I have been proposing to meet this problem by national health insurance. This proposal has generated a great deal of controversy. I still believe it is sound, and that the nation would be greatly strengthened by its adoption."

The Truman plan, which would embrace all citizens and be financed by compulsory payroll deductions, has been bitterly opposed by the American Medical Association and other organizations.

Policeman's Club Stops Stolen Car

BALTIMORE, June 22 (AP) — A policeman's trusty nightstick stopped a fleeing stolen automobile today after sirens, bullets and a tire blowout failed.

Three 17-year-olds were brought to bay after Patrolman Robert Taylor hurled his club at the wind shield, causing the driver to lose control of the car.

It smashed into four parked cars and hopped a curb, ending a ten-mile chase.

Association Would Bar Communist Lawyers

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 22 (AP) — The Maryland Bar Association's Committee on American Citizenship proposed here today that lawyers who support Communism be barred from practice in Maryland.

Richard F. Cleveland, committee chairman, submitted the plan to the convention as a resolution. A vote is expected to be taken tomorrow.

The committee also suggested that lawyers aid school officials in citizenship training programs.

Big 4 Deputies Heading Home

PARIS, June 22 (AP) — Andrei Gromyko told a news conference tonight the breakup of Paris talks on a Big Four foreign ministers conference "certainly cannot improve the situation, nor relations among the four powers."

The Soviet deputy minister talked to reporters in a 90-minute meeting at the Soviet Embassy which consisted largely of the reading of a 13-page account of the conference from the Russian point of view and a laborious translation into French.

Recalling the 74 fruitless sessions of the Big Four deputy foreign ministers, one correspondent called the news conference "the 75th session."

"We are going to leave as soon as possible," Gromyko said. "We are only waiting for the planes to come to take us home."

The British and American deputies also are heading home.

Zoo Monkey Turns Purse-Snatcher And Money-Eater

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 22 (AP) — Chico, a Forest Park Zoo monkey, was in disgrace today after turning purse-snatcher and money-eater.

Mrs. Paul Murgola was offering Chico a peanut when he suddenly grabbed her purse and pulled it inside his cage. He opened the handbag, selected two one-dollar bills and ate them with evident relish.

For dessert he consumed snapshots of Mrs. Murgola's husband and her children.

Park attendants played a hose on Chico and recovered the purse.

Russia 'Exploits' British-Iran Oil Dispute, U. S. Says

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The State Department accused Russia today of "exploiting" the British-Iranian oil dispute in an effort to bring Iran behind the iron curtain.

"In the midst of this turmoil, the Soviet Union—Iran's strong neighbor on the north and for centuries a traditional enemy—has been exploiting the situation for her own benefit mainly through the Communist-controlled clandestine Tudeh Party," the State Department said.

It made the charges in a departmental paper released to provide public background on Iran's history and the present conflict with the British over nationalizing the middle eastern country's oil resources.

Oil Issue Taken To World Court

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, June 22 (AP)—Britain sent a King's messenger to the World Court today with a request for temporary measures to protect the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's rights in Iran.

Britain is seeking what amounts to an injunction against Iran. But Iran has declared the court has no jurisdiction in the case.

British RAF squadrons in the Suez Canal zone were reported standing by, ready to take off at a moment's notice, as Iran made preparations apparently aimed at enforcing her nationalization law over the billion-dollar British-owned company. The Cairo newspaper Akher Lahza said leaves of all RAF personnel in the zone had been cancelled.

The company, through a British Embassy spokesman at Tehran, warned the Iranian government the giant Abadan refinery might be forced to shut down because of "mass resignations" of British technicians.

U. S. To Help Ecuador To Develop Resources

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—President Truman and Ecuadorean President Galo Plaza announced today a program designed to raise Ecuador's living standards and strengthen relations between the two countries.

And it was learned that the U. S. Import-Export Bank plans to announce a loan to Ecuador before the visiting President leaves Washington tomorrow night for New York.

In the agreement announced by the two presidents was a promise by the United States that it will work jointly with Ecuador to study that country's economic potentialities and means for developing its resources.

Bills Would Relax Auto Credit Terms

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—More liberal credit terms for car buyers are called for in both the Senate and House bills dealing with economic controls.

The Senate Banking Committee drafted a provision telling the Federal Reserve Board to relax Regulation W so new and used cars can be bought with down payments of one-third the purchase price and have the payments spread over 18 instead of the presently required 15 months.

The House bill contains the same terms for new car purchasers but calls for down payments of no more than 25 per cent of the cost of used cars and permits repayments over 18 months.

Color TV Converts To Be Demonstrated

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP) —"Slave units" which will enable reception of TV shows in color through conventional black-and-white sets will be demonstrated here next week by Avco Manufacturing Co.'s Crosley Division.

"Slave units" are converts which can be plugged into black-and-white TV sets, affording an extra picture tube for color reception.

They were developed with a view toward enabling reception off CBS color programs on existing sets. Telecasting of CBS color shows on a commercial basis will start in New York and four other eastern cities Monday afternoon.

Truman Defends His Health Plan

BETHESDA, Md., June 22 (AP)—President Truman today challenged opponents of his compulsory health insurance plan to "come up with a better proposal, or even one that is almost as good."

If they do, Mr. Truman said, "I'll go along with them."

The President stated his position in an address dedicating the National Institute of Health's new clinical center in Bethesda, a suburb of Washington. Later he laid the cornerstone of the $60,000,000 structure.

"Medical care is for the people and not just for the doctors," Mr. Truman said in his prepared address. "Our objective must be to make the best modern medical care available to more and more people. I intend to keep right on working for that.

"Since 1945, I have been proposing to meet this problem by national health insurance. This proposal has generated a great deal of controversy. I still believe it is sound, and that the nation would be greatly strengthened by its adoption."

The Truman plan, which would embrace all citizens and be financed by compulsory payroll deductions, has been bitterly opposed by the American Medical Association and other organizations.

Policeman's Club Stops Stolen Car

BALTIMORE, June 22 (AP) — A policeman's trusty nightstick stopped a fleeing stolen automobile today after sirens, bullets and a tire blowout failed.

Three 17-year-olds were brought to bay after Patrolman Robert Taylor hurled his club at the wind shield, causing the driver to lose control of the car.

It smashed into four parked cars and hopped a curb, ending a ten-mile chase.

Association Would Bar Communist Lawyers

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 22 (AP) — The Maryland Bar Association's Committee on American Citizenship proposed here today that lawyers who support Communism be barred from practice in Maryland.

Richard F. Cleveland, committee chairman, submitted the plan to the convention as a resolution. A vote is expected to be taken tomorrow.

The committee also suggested that lawyers aid school officials in citizenship training programs.

Big 4 Deputies Heading Home

PARIS, June 22 (AP) — Andrei Gromyko told a news conference tonight the breakup of Paris talks on a Big Four foreign ministers conference "certainly cannot improve the situation, nor relations among the four powers."

The Soviet deputy minister talked to reporters in a 90-minute meeting at the Soviet Embassy which consisted largely of the reading of a 13-page account of the conference from the Russian point of view and a laborious translation into French.

Recalling the 74 fruitless sessions of the Big Four deputy foreign ministers, one correspondent called the news conference "the 75th session."

"We are going to leave as soon as possible," Gromyko said. "We are only waiting for the planes to come to take us home."

The British and American deputies also are heading home.

Zoo Monkey Turns Purse-Snatcher And Money-Eater

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 22 (AP) — Chico, a Forest Park Zoo monkey, was in disgrace today after turning purse-snatcher and money-eater.

Mrs. Paul Murgola was offering Chico a peanut when he suddenly grabbed her purse and pulled it inside his cage. He opened the handbag, selected two one-dollar bills and ate them with evident relish.

For dessert he consumed snapshots of Mrs. Murgola's husband and her children.

Park attendants played a hose on Chico and recovered the purse.

Ninth Marine Dies

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The death toll in the mortar explosion accident at Camp Lejeune, N. C., rose to nine today, the Marine Corps said when one of the seriously wounded died.

The man who died of his injuries was Pfc. James M. Tarleton, Baltimore, Md.

Russia 'Exploits' British-Iran Oil Dispute, U. S. Says

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The State Department accused Russia today of "exploiting" the British-Iranian oil dispute in an effort to bring Iran behind the iron curtain.

"In the midst of this turmoil, the Soviet Union—Iran's strong neighbor on the north and for centuries a traditional enemy—has been exploiting the situation for her own benefit mainly through the Communist-controlled clandestine Tudeh Party," the State Department said.

It made the charges in a departmental paper released to provide public background on Iran's history and the present conflict with the British over nationalizing the middle eastern country's oil resources.

Oil Issue Taken To World Court

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, June 22 (AP)—Britain sent a King's messenger to the World Court today with a request for temporary measures to protect the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's rights in Iran.

Britain is seeking what amounts to an injunction against Iran. But Iran has declared the court has no jurisdiction in the case.

British RAF squadrons in the Suez Canal zone were reported standing by, ready to take off at a moment's notice, as Iran made preparations apparently aimed at enforcing her nationalization law over the billion-dollar British-owned company. The Cairo newspaper Akher Lahza said leaves of all RAF personnel in the zone had been cancelled.

The company, through a British Embassy spokesman at Tehran, warned the Iranian government the giant Abadan refinery might be forced to shut down because of "mass resignations" of British technicians.

There will be more beauty on the beach this year than in many a summer! Follow these guides to suit flattery.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

It's been many a year since you have found such fascinating beach fashions as are awaiting you in the shops today. In just two seconds you will find at least one really perfect suit for your type of figure . . . and probably several.

With an average or better figure, be on the lookout for the one-piece, paper-on-the-wall fit—a new fashion that makes great sense. It gives a slicked line to the body, because it eliminates the pulled-apart look of the old two-piece styles. Its snuggness gives as fresh an appearance when you emerge from the water as when you dive in.

Suiting Your Figure

If you decide on the one-piece model, choose the most flattering among the dozens shown. The elasticized fabrics may be relied on to mold the flesh at least a little. Look for seaming that will best camouflage any minor figure fault. To make your hips appear smaller and your chest broader, select the suit that is seamed in a triangle, the lines of which bisect the bosom and widen out to cut across the hip girth diagonally. If it's waist-slimming you need, princess seaming will accomplish your goal. Vertical stitching is the answer if it's slimming and heightening that you desire.

For all other details, too, becomingness should be uppermost in your mind. If your legs are slim, there's the suit with a molded skirt covering attached trunks, and also rounded curve or surplice lines. To display a good back, put your trust in a halter top. And remember that narrow straps efface a multitude of sins.

Feminine Types

If even the thought of a clinging suit sends a shudder through your figure's ego, consider the 1951 versions of the dressmaker models—they may make you the belle of the aquacade. In their most fetching versions, they have two-piece functional sheaths for swimming and a feminine wrap-around skirt or tie-on apron for sunning. Not convertible but extremely becoming are trunks covered with a long, slimming tunic and the belted "tuck-in" suits, with the unheard of advantage of tops and bottoms being available in different sizes.

High-fashion notes: New trims are buttons, narrow ruffling, big pockets, bow ties and embroidery; newest fabrics are printed and polished cotton, pique, sharkskin, flannel and elasticized faille, matelasse and satin; newly ensembled are the suits with stoles, T-shirts, boleros and dusters; the new look is sissy on south sea island.

Beauty galore is what you'll find at the beach this year!

Attempt To Wreck W. Md. Train Fails

A crude attempt to damage the Western Maryland Railway tracks in Westernport was under investigation yesterday by state and Allegany county officials and the company's police department.

About a quarter stick of low grade explosive that had been crushed by a passing train was found about 11 a. m. yesterday on the tracks 100 yards west of the C. and P. Railroad crossover.

An electric cap, which could have set off the charge by the force of a concussion, was attached to particles of the explosive, but it apparently had not been touched by the train's wheels. Another cap was found a short distance away.

The incident was investigated by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, First Sgt. Harry Holsinger and Trooper First Class Milton Hart of the Maryland State Police; H. B. Clark, special agent for the Western Maryland Railway; Deputy Sheriffs William Chappel and Edgar M. Lewis, and Burza Hanlin, Westernport chief of police.

Peace Treaty With Japan

John Foster Dulles, special representative of President Truman on drafting a peace treaty with Japan, says he hopes the treaty will be signed before the end of the summer. It would undoubtedly provide for U.S. bases in Japan, at least while a state of war continued in Korea.

If the treaty were ratified before peace came officially to Korea, Japan would then be an ally of the United States in fact, even though a sovereign independent state in international law. These considerations have led to criticism of the Truman Administration in some quarters for pressing for a Japanese peace treaty now.

The critics argue that, although General MacArthur was deposed for actions alleged to threaten all-out war in Asia, the projected peace treaty would give the Soviet Union legalistic grounds for starting all-out war. The Soviet-Chinese pact of February 14, 1950, provides that Russia and China will undertake "all necessary measures" to prevent "aggression and violation of the peace on the part of Japan or any other state which directly or indirectly would unite with Japan in acts of aggression."

In urging an early Japanese peace treaty with Japan back in March, 1947, General MacArthur suggested that responsibility for Japan be assumed by the United Nations. "This is the most favorable opportunity the UN will ever have," he said. "If it cannot function under these conditions, it cannot mean anything." As he left Japan after being relieved of assignment by President Truman, General MacArthur in a plane-to-plane conversation with Dulles repeated his desire for a speedy peace treaty.

The recent U. S.-British accord on a Japanese peace treaty was negotiated only after shelving the issue of which of the Chinese governments—the Reds or the Nationalists—was to sign for China. The decision apparently was to go ahead with the treaty and let Japan make the choice. That is, the Japanese could decide whether to sign a separate treaty with the Reds, or with the Nationalists, or conceivably with both.

The recent Soviet demand for a conference this summer of all nations which had fought Japan is viewed by the U. S. State Department as obstructionist old stuff. Moscow has maintained that a draft treaty should be drawn up by the Council of Foreign Ministers—which for this purpose would be constituted by the U. S., Britain, China, and Russia. Under the rule of unanimity in the Council, Russia would have veto power.

Signers of the Declaration by United Nations of January 1, 1942, pledged themselves "not to make a separate armistice or peace with the enemies." But the agreement seems to have been intended only as a safeguard against withdrawal of an ally before the end of the shooting war. And in 1942 Russia was at peace with Japan.

Britain, which has placed an embargo on rubber and other strategic materials for the Chinese mainland would still like to maintain its China trade in the future. London points out that the U. S., while favoring a complete economic blockade of Red China, has allowed Japan to continue trading with the Communists. Premier Yoshida of Japan has implied that Japan would continue to do business with the Reds after obtaining a peace treaty with the United States. Yoshida said recently:

"Red or White, China remains our next-door neighbor. Geography and economic laws will prevail over any ideological differences and artificial trade barriers."

The Dopes

It is difficult to decide how much to believe of the tales of widespread narcotics addiction in New York City high schools, but at best it is an appalling situation that a current inquiry is revealing. Marijuana, cocaine and heroin are being sold to and by students who have been lured into the drug habit by free samples.

When they find they cannot do without the stuff, the price goes up. Presently odd jobs will not pay for as much of it as they crave, and they turn to petty crimes. Even when they are caught and sent to detention homes, they find dope available there.

There were parents and teachers who never suspected their charges were dope addicts. And there were high school kids who not only acted like dopes, but were. Hadn't they been told anything at all about drug addiction? Didn't they believe what they were told? Or didn't they care?

In some ways, to be sure, the taking of habit-forming drugs is less harmful than some lurid accounts would indicate. As a practical matter in today's world, however, the physical effects are the least of the damage. The drug addict becomes almost literally a slave—first to the dope itself, then to the punks who sell it.

How can adolescents, at the very age when freedom from restrictive authority becomes a compelling urge, put new and sinister shackles on themselves?

And why was everybody that should have been concerned with their welfare looking the other way?

Congressional Junket

Sixteen members of the House of Representatives are in Europe to consult key American officials in countries belonging to the North Atlantic treaty and in Western Germany as well.

Just who was responsible for this junket is not clear. The administration has just submitted to Congress a plan calling for the expenditure of $8,500,000,000 in foreign economic and military aid during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952. Perhaps the majority leadership fell in with a hint that came from the White House.

General Eisenhower could not help but be concerned that he is not making more rapid progress with his herculean task. In Europe there continues to be a disposition to hold back, to look for excuses to do less than might be done, and to find them in the very real difficulties that confront the program.

In a tour of 10 days, covering almost as many countries, the members of this committee cannot get a comprehensive and thorough knowledge of General Eisenhower's problem. But they can feel the atmosphere, which should aid them in determining what can be expected from Europe.

Editorial Paragraphs

If one observed all the health rules in this era of inflation and higher taxes, he might live longer than he could afford to.

There is a possibility the meek might inherit the earth as it is today, but they deserve a better fate.

Syphilis: Three Stages

Syphilis is still with us but the disease "ain't what it used to be." Penicillin has proved an effective remedy and, when it is used early in the infection, quick cure can be anticipated. However, to obtain such results the individual must report for treatment as soon as possible.

The social stigma associated with syphilis remains but this is no reason why we should ignore the subject. Where would religion be today had the clergy failed to talk about sin? By acquainting the public with the facts they learn what to expect and how to proceed when infection occurs. This has induced more and more men and women to request routine blood tests. In addition, victims of the disease are more cooperative because they have learned to appreciate the advantages or adequate care.

The chancre is the initial lesion of syphilis. The sore makes its appearance within three or four weeks after exposure; usually, over the area of contact. It begins as an oval swelling which ulcerates and is easily recognized by its crater-like center surrounded by a dull, red, elevated border. The lesion is painless and in this respect differs from ulcers caused by other types of infection. The neighboring glands become swollen, occasionally to such an extent as to bulge the overlying skin. The ulcer teems with the parasites and, by utilizing special equipment, they can be demonstrated under the microscope. This is the only way the condition can be diagnosed at this stage because the blood does not become positive until the open sore is at least 15 days old.

If nothing is done, the lesion lasts for a month or longer; then it vanishes spontaneously. From three to six weeks later comes the secondary stage. A characteristic skin rash developes and at the same time many small grayish-white patches are noted on the inside of the mouth. The pharynx and tonsils become red and raw and the temperature may rise, leading the victim to believe he has a cold.

Ultimately the disease progresses to the tertiary stage. There is no sharp dividing line between the second and third stages; now and then the manifestations of the latter do not come on until years later. By this time the organisms may have left their markon the arteries, muscles, bones, heart, and nervous system. This is the bad feature of syphilis and the part that leads to disability or early death.

Twenty years ago case of this nature were common in all hospitals but nowdays they are rare. This is because treatment is being instituted long before the parasites have had a chance to damage the organs of the body. The years also have brought much progress in treatment. Penicillin has cured some cases in less than two weeks. This is not the only remedy but the results are dramatic when the drug "clicks."

Torn Cartilage

L. W. writes: What makes a trick knee?

REPLY

A torn cartilage is the most common cause. A piece of this gristle-like material becomes dislodged or bent on itself. This acts as a wedge to prevent straightening of the knee.

Flabbiness

V. G. writes: What is the reason for soft lumpy flesh instead of muscles in the arms and legs?

REPLY

This is not uncommon in the elderly who are inactive and have lost weight.

Foot Fungus

F. V. R. writes: My 6 year old son has peeling of the skin on the bottom of his feet and the layer below the surface looks pinkish. Is this athlete's foot?

REPLY

Ringworm is the best possibility. Now and then peeling occurs when the skin is too moist because the shoes do not allow adequate ventilation. Contact dermatitis and allergy to a substance in the shoes also should be taken into consideration.

Trick Knee

Mrs. L. writes: Does a damaged cartilage of the knee call for operation?

REPLY

Only when the knee continues to cause trouble despite rest and a supportive bandage.

Phenol And Cancer

J. M. writes: Is phenol successful in burning out cancerous tissues?

REPLY

Phenol preparations will burn out cancerous lesions on the skin but they are so unwieldy as to be of no practical value. Unfortunately the normal tissue surrounding the diseased part also may be charred, which would lead to disfigurements. Furthermore, there is no way of telling whether the cancer has been eliminated in the deeper areas.

Lymph Cancer

X. writes: Does cancer ever occur in the lymph glands?

REPLY

Yes. In lymphosarcoma, for example, cancer originates in the lymph glands. The structures also may become involved as a result of spread of malignancy from a nearby lesion.

Truman Briefed Margaret On European Gigolos; Kuomintang Has Political Party Inside U. S. A.; Chinatowns Work For All-Out U. S.-China War

WASHINGTON — The President jokingly admitted the other day that he had given daughter Margaret a fatherly briefing about European gigolos before she left the country. The admission was made in a chat with Harold Russell, national commander of Amvets, when Russell was commenting on the good-will aspects of Margaret's trip.

"She's a better ambassador than anyone we've got over there," the Amvets boss told Margaret's proud papa.

"I swell up like a pizened pup whenever I hear that," Truman beamed. "It's hard for me to realize that she's grown up. I still think of her as so high."

The President held out his hand about even with the top of his desk.

"In fact, I still call her 'Baby' sometimes, but I warned her before she left that I didn't want any of those two-legged—"

Truman paused, decided aginst a stronger word.

"—Guys over there calling her by that name."

Chinese War Lobby

If the Senate ever carries out its threat to probe the China lobby, it will unearth an attempt to organize the Chinatowns in 45 American cities with a view to putting the United States into a full-scale war with China.

It will also find that a foreign political party—the Kuomintang—is operating in this country under a system somewhat comparable to the German Bund.

The aim of the Kuomintang in this country is spelled out as follows: "To secure and maintain the interest of the Chinese people of the United States to aid and further the aims of the central executive committee of the Kuomintang."

Thus, the Kuomintang is the only political party in the United States, besides the Communists, whose first allegiance is to a foreign government. Furthermore, the Kuomintang is not only officially dedicated to bringing the United States into an all-out war with China, but as the first step, its American branches are working with the China lobby in bombarding Congress with telegrams and letters.

Significantly, loyal Chinese-Americans have steered clear of the Kuomintang, just as they have the Communists. So far, the Kuomintang has succeeded in enrolling only 3,825 members in 45 cities—a mere handful of the total Chinese-American population.

Who's Who In Kuomintag

Kuomintang headquarters is located at 844 Stockton Street in San Francisco's Chinatown. Its directors include Pei Chi Liu, ex-official of the National Ministry of Education; Fong Chee, former counselor to the Nationalists' Kwantung provincial government, which would correspond to a state government in this country; and Yong Chang Yu, former specialist for the legislative yuan, one of five controlling yuans of the Nationalist government.

The most influential director up until his death recently was Kwong Ping Shun, who actually belonged to the Nationalist legislature and attended sessions in China, while at the same time directing the Kuomintang in this country and maintaining an official residence in San Francisco.

Other Kuomintang directors in this country are importers, whose chief trade is with Formosa and whose business depends upon the Nationalist government. They include Hoo Shuck, Fong W. Doon, Fong Yue and Chin Dok Jow. Another director, Hung Jee Wong, is assistant manager of "The Young China," a pro-Koumintang, Chinese-language newspaper published in San Francisco.

The Kuomintang in this country is also organized into five regions under the leadership of Chan Jack San, San Francisco; Louie Mon Ben, San Antonio, Texas; Ng Shi Jam, Portland, Ore.; Yee Jan Tong, New York City; and Show Kwok Jing, Chicago.

To help finance its activities, the Kuomintang owns several apartment houses and operates the Chien-Kuo (Chinese) Language School in San Francisco.

Taxpayers Pay Again—The two Colorado senators — Johnson, a Democrat, and Millikin, a Republican—have set up a special office on Capitol Hill to solicit war contracts for Colorado firms. The office is run by Ed Keating, who was put on Johnson's payroll, while Millikin contributed a secretary from his Senate payroll. Actually, however, it is the taxpayers who pay all the bill, so that Colorado companies can get favored treatment. For the taxpayers pay the salaries of this office and also pay for the office space—all to help Colorado. If every senator did this for his state, the Senate Building would be swamped. Meanwhile, Senator Douglas of Illinois can't find office space on Capitol Hill for his committee investigating ethics in government.

Mac's Intelligence Chief—The recent statement by Maj. Gen. Charles Willoughby, MacArthur's intelligence chief in Korea, that he had warned Washington in advance of outbreak in Korea, is a far cry from what Willoughby told a congressional committee in Tokyo. In September of 1949, General Willoughby boasted to a group of visiting congressmen, led by M. G. Burnside of West Virginia and Charles Deane of North Carolina, that he didn't expect any war in Korea for at least two years. The attack by North Koreans came nine months later.

Does Congress Know?—Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson took a sly dig at Congress the other day. In his opinion on the "fair trade" decision that led to the department store price war, Jackson threw in this crack at the lawmakers: "To select casual statements from (congressional) floor debates—not always distinguished for candor or accuracy—as a basis for making up our minds what law Congress intended to enact is to substitute ourselves for the Congress. The Constitution, in requiring three readings of an act in each house before final enactment, intended, I take it, to make sure that Congress knew what is was passing and passed what it wanted."

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—A profound evolution, if not change, in American policy is represented by President Truman's appointment of what is called a "psychological strategy board." It will attempt to influence the peoples—rather than the governments—of other countries.

Although composed of representatives of the Department of State, the Department of Defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the new agency reports directly to the President. This means that at last an independent institution free from the handicaps of the State Department's formal diplomacy can operate freely in the field of what used to be called "psychological warfare."

It is to be noted that the head of the Central Intelligence Agency is to be a member of the board and that members from other government departments may be added as the work progresses.

Headed By Gray

Gordon Gray, who used to be Secretary of the Army, has been chosen to head it up and the outline thus far makes it appear that the objective is to combine some of the tasks that were performed by the Office of Strategic Services during the last war and some of the duties of the Office of War Information.

Broadly speaking, the purpose is to utilize the principle of infiltration which has been availed of by the Russians inside Western countries, but without stooping to the methods and practices of the Communists.

The United States has too long neglected this field of operation. It has been delayed due to the tenacity with which Secretary of State Acheson has opposed any such broad activity unless it could be controlled entirely by his department. He honestly believed it might lead to complications for the State Department. But the famous Formosa document, which was admittedly an effort to abandon truth in order to accomplish what was believed at the time to be a desirable objective, shows how such tactics can boomerang against the State Department.

The new board probably will not operate any information service. The "Voice of America" probably will go on functioning as it is but with directives of policy from the psychological board that may affect its programs.

Basically, the new board, however, cannot succeed merely because interdepartmental machinery has been set up to direct it. Something vital is lacking. It is the failure of the basic policy of the government itself to furnish the sinews of a good strategy.

It will be useless for the strategy board to try to make effective use of policies which are transparently insincere or inconsistent.

Firm Policy Needed

No board of strategy can do anything if the President and Secretary of State pursue policies that are faulty. For the State Department to favor the Nationalist government of China one day and to belittle it the next day will not enable the new psychological board to win friends for the United States in Asia. There has to be a firmness and a straightforwardness about national and international policy which will enable a strategy board to feel it is on firm ground when it undertakes a campaign to persuade the peoples of other countries as to basic truths.

Whether any psychological board can succeed in the absence of a competent leadership in international affairs is problematical. The Department of State today does not have the confidence of a united American people. The President has wrecked bipartisan co-operation. If bipartisan handling of foreign policy could be restored, if the American people could be reunited behind a leadership in world policy that they feel they can trust, then a psychological board could do an effective job inside other countries. The trouble will not be with the board but with the ingredients of strategy made available to it by the higher-ups in government itself.

A Year In Korea

By MARK SULLIVAN

On this anniversary, June 24, we have had a year of experience in Korea.

By an arresting coincidence we are just concluding a nearly two months inquiry which, beginning with President Truman's dismissal of Gen. MacArthur, went exhaustively into policy associated with Korea. We have reviewed thoroughly the Administration policy about China preceding and during Korea, and we have heard testimony and views from men high in authority about what our policy ought now to be.

And preceding this inquiry covering China and Korea we had listened to the "great debate," precipitated by the solemn warning which ex-President Hoover gave out December 20, a debate covering the broad field of our relations with the world as we confront Russian communism.

After all this, in spite of all this and because of all this, men ask where are we now, what is ahead? What they learn from Administration sources can at best give rise among the people to not much more than indefinite hope. Because the Administration's position is necessarily one of self-defense, though they do not admit this, they try to tell the country, and perhaps convince themselves, that Korea will work out all right. They strongly reject the idea that Korea will be a continuing stalemate. They say that Communist China, because of the immense number of casualties inflicted upon it, will presently be willing to make a truce. They say that after the truce it will be possible to bring about a stable situation. They imply that such a hoped-for lack of success of the Communist aggression in Korea will make Communist Russia less likely to attempt other aggressions or otherwise cause a third world war.

Administration's Handicap

Expectations that reflect the Administration or arise from utterances and proposals emanating from it do not fully allay anxious questioning about what is ahead. For one reason the Administration is under a handicap which it cannot escape. The handicap is inherent in the fact that the Administration was in power when disasters took place, the fall of China to Russian communism and the aggression in Korea. Even if the relation of the Administration to those disasters had been short of serious blame, the people would still be hesitant about having confidence in policies it proposes or views it gives out.

There is an additional reason why hopes or expectations reflecting the Administration or arising from utterances or proposals that emanate from it do not allay the people's anxiety about the future. The reason is that the people hear directly contrary judgments from persons outside the Administration who are in positions to have authoritative information and judgment and who have the confidence of large numbers of the people. One such source declares it is vain to hope that the Chinese Communist government will be worn down to willingness for truce by loss of its manpower in a war of attrition. While attrition would cause vast loss of manpower and other resources to China, it would also cause a loss to us which, though much less, would be more than we could safely bear considering our vast commitments throughout the world.

Somber Thoughts

Much of the thought current in America on this anniversary of Korea is somber. During the week preceding the anniversary there appeared in the New York Herald Tribune on successive days two articles by distinguished and well-informed columnists. Both dealt with the conflict between the Western world that embraces us and the Russian Communist world. Both presented gloomy prospects. No condensation of an article so minutely thought out and so close-knit as that of Mr. Walter Lippmann would be even faintly possible. A gist of some of the points he made is here attempted in the present writer's words. Mr. Lippman does not regard a total war as inevitable. Yet the conflicts we are being sucked into make it difficult to avoid enlargement of the war as it now is unless there is a settlement between the Soviet Union and the Western world. The possible settlement Mr. Lippmann discussed would amount to a prolonged coexistence of the two worlds behind fixed boundaries.

The best that Mr. Lippmann held out as a possibility was grim. What Mr. Stewart Alsop wrote almost simultaneously was likewise grim. A possible outcome he discussed was "an intensely insecure armed truce."

The coincidence of ideas parallel in important respects has some importance itself. A colloquial summation of what America is passing through is in the words of one who said: "We are walking a tightrope over Niagara in a high wind."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The China Lobby

Three factors enter into the propaganda of any country within the United States:

1. The legitimate provision of information and propaganda. Such agencies are maintained in the United States by nearly all countries, probably the largest being the British.

American employes of such organizations are required by law to register as foreign agents. This list has heretofore always been a public document, available to anyone who cared to look at it. For some reason, not readily understood, this has now become a secret list, perhaps to protect Washington lawyers.

2. The various organizations of Americans who voluntarily spend their own time and money being pro or anti this or that. The country is full of them. As regards China, there are a number of associations in favor of Nationalist or Communist China. Some of these have been effective.

3. The clandestine efforts of foreign governments by diverse means to influence public opinion. These are naturally not always traceable. For instance, Nationalist China had, during the war years, set up agencies in Washington under the general management of T. V. Soong, David Corcoran (brother of Tommy) and Ludwik Rajchman to operate various enterprises in connection with loans, supplies, etc. Whether such an agency also engaged in influencing views, I do not know. The natural supposition must be that every country seeks to win friends and does the best it can. And the winning of friendship is a gentle art with many techniques.

Soviet Russia employed Amtorg in numerous ways, from trade and commerce to espionage. To what extent other governments employ similar agencies for these purposes has never been established in a quotable manner.

The phrase, "The China Lobby," has thus far not been defined as belonging to the categories described above. If it is found that an agency of the Chinese government employed a publicity firm, such as the Allied Syndicates, Inc. or some other, this is legitimate and there can be no criticism either of the employer or the employe. The Allied Syndicates has been close to the Democratic party, having had John Sullivan, former Secretary of the Navy, and Clark Clifford, former counsellor to the President, associated with it. It has also been suggested that a member of the President's office had recommended this firm.

There can be no reasonable objection to the employment of this firm for straight publicity work, if that is what they did. I have no information to the contrary.

The cry against "The China Lobby" originated in the Russell Committee among those senators who are violently anti-MacArthur. Their object is to detract attention from the failings of the Administration to the protagonists of Chiang Kai-shek. Their butt is not the hired public relations 'counsel nor even the Chinese themselves; it is to bring odium to American citizens who have spent their own time and money to oppose the Communist conquest of China. They would like to pillory Alfred Kohlberg, a citizen who is devoted to anti-communism.

The reason that these politicians hate Kohlberg is that they believe that he is responsible for Senator Joe McCarthy — which would be something for anyone to take on. Joe McCarthy and Kohlberg are friends and serve in the same causes. So are a great many other Americans. It will do no harm to bring it all into the open, not by smearing nor by sly, undefined accusations, but by setting forth the virtue of these Americans who inhibited the State Department policy of aiding Communist China.

As a matter of fact, it is encouraging to see Americans put up the fight they have against Communist China. Perhaps had there been no Kohnbergs, Soviet Russia would, by now, be in Burma, Siam and Iran.

I know this man and have often wondered at his fanatical insistence in a tough fight. A merchant, he has devoted time, money and experience to the fight. He got into it by accident; that is, he believed that the Institute of Pacific Relations of which he had been a member and to which he had contributed, had misrepresented itself to him. He got sore.

The more he got into that fight, the more he recognized that the battle had to be broadened until it included an attack on all Communist activity, particularly right here in the United States.

He has proved to be an effective fighter and a competent leader in a good cause. Investigators of Kohlberg will have a tough time discovering any anti-American attitudes.

We have the big secret left. The spies still don't know what kind of camphor we used to mothball the fleet.

Peace Treaty With Japan

John Foster Dulles, special representative of President Truman on drafting a peace treaty with Japan, says he hopes the treaty will be signed before the end of the summer. It would undoubtedly provide for U.S. bases in Japan, at least while a state of war continued in Korea.

If the treaty were ratified before peace came officially to Korea, Japan would then be an ally of the United States in fact, even though a sovereign independent state in international law. These considerations have led to criticism of the Truman Administration in some quarters for pressing for a Japanese peace treaty now.

The critics argue that, although General MacArthur was deposed for actions alleged to threaten all-out war in Asia, the projected peace treaty would give the Soviet Union legalistic grounds for starting all-out war. The Soviet-Chinese pact of February 14, 1950, provides that Russia and China will undertake "all necessary measures" to prevent "aggression and violation of the peace on the part of Japan or any other state which directly or indirectly would unite with Japan in acts of aggression."

In urging an early Japanese peace treaty with Japan back in March, 1947, General MacArthur suggested that responsibility for Japan be assumed by the United Nations. "This is the most favorable opportunity the UN will ever have," he said. "If it cannot function under these conditions, it cannot mean anything." As he left Japan after being relieved of assignment by President Truman, General MacArthur in a plane-to-plane conversation with Dulles repeated his desire for a speedy peace treaty.

The recent U. S.-British accord on a Japanese peace treaty was negotiated only after shelving the issue of which of the Chinese governments—the Reds or the Nationalists—was to sign for China. The decision apparently was to go ahead with the treaty and let Japan make the choice. That is, the Japanese could decide whether to sign a separate treaty with the Reds, or with the Nationalists, or conceivably with both.

The recent Soviet demand for a conference this summer of all nations which had fought Japan is viewed by the U. S. State Department as obstructionist old stuff. Moscow has maintained that a draft treaty should be drawn up by the Council of Foreign Ministers—which for this purpose would be constituted by the U. S., Britain, China, and Russia. Under the rule of unanimity in the Council, Russia would have veto power.

Signers of the Declaration by United Nations of January 1, 1942, pledged themselves "not to make a separate armistice or peace with the enemies." But the agreement seems to have been intended only as a safeguard against withdrawal of an ally before the end of the shooting war. And in 1942 Russia was at peace with Japan.

Britain, which has placed an embargo on rubber and other strategic materials for the Chinese mainland would still like to maintain its China trade in the future. London points out that the U. S., while favoring a complete economic blockade of Red China, has allowed Japan to continue trading with the Communists. Premier Yoshida of Japan has implied that Japan would continue to do business with the Reds after obtaining a peace treaty with the United States. Yoshida said recently:

"Red or White, China remains our next-door neighbor. Geography and economic laws will prevail over any ideological differences and artificial trade barriers."

The Dopes

It is difficult to decide how much to believe of the tales of widespread narcotics addiction in New York City high schools, but at best it is an appalling situation that a current inquiry is revealing. Marijuana, cocaine and heroin are being sold to and by students who have been lured into the drug habit by free samples.

When they find they cannot do without the stuff, the price goes up. Presently odd jobs will not pay for as much of it as they crave, and they turn to petty crimes. Even when they are caught and sent to detention homes, they find dope available there.

There were parents and teachers who never suspected their charges were dope addicts. And there were high school kids who not only acted like dopes, but were. Hadn't they been told anything at all about drug addiction? Didn't they believe what they were told? Or didn't they care?

In some ways, to be sure, the taking of habit-forming drugs is less harmful than some lurid accounts would indicate. As a practical matter in today's world, however, the physical effects are the least of the damage. The drug addict becomes almost literally a slave—first to the dope itself, then to the punks who sell it.

How can adolescents, at the very age when freedom from restrictive authority becomes a compelling urge, put new and sinister shackles on themselves?

And why was everybody that should have been concerned with their welfare looking the other way?

Congressional Junket

Sixteen members of the House of Representatives are in Europe to consult key American officials in countries belonging to the North Atlantic treaty and in Western Germany as well.

Just who was responsible for this junket is not clear. The administration has just submitted to Congress a plan calling for the expenditure of $8,500,000,000 in foreign economic and military aid during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952. Perhaps the majority leadership fell in with a hint that came from the White House.

General Eisenhower could not help but be concerned that he is not making more rapid progress with his herculean task. In Europe there continues to be a disposition to hold back, to look for excuses to do less than might be done, and to find them in the very real difficulties that confront the program.

In a tour of 10 days, covering almost as many countries, the members of this committee cannot get a comprehensive and thorough knowledge of General Eisenhower's problem. But they can feel the atmosphere, which should aid them in determining what can be expected from Europe.

The aim of the Kuomintang in this country is spelled out as follows: "To secure and maintain the interest of the Chinese people of the United States to aid and further the aims of the central executive committee of the Kuomintang."

Thus, the Kuomintang is the only political party in the United States, besides the Communists, whose first allegiance is to a foreign government. Furthermore, the Kuomintang is not only officially dedicated to bringing the United States into an all-out war with China, but as the first step, its American branches are working with the China lobby in bombarding Congress with telegrams and letters.

Significantly, loyal Chinese-Americans have steered clear of the Kuomintang, just as they have the Communists. So far, the Kuomintang has succeeded in enrolling only 3,825 members in 45 cities—a mere handful of the total Chinese-American population.

Who's Who In Kuomintag

Kuomintang headquarters is located at 844 Stockton Street in San Francisco's Chinatown. Its directors include Pei Chi Liu, ex-official of the National Ministry of Education; Fong Chee, former counselor to the Nationalists' Kwantung provincial government, which would correspond to a state government in this country; and Yong Chang Yu, former specialist for the legislative yuan, one of five controlling yuans of the Nationalist government.

The most influential director up until his death recently was Kwong Ping Shun, who actually belonged to the Nationalist legislature and attended sessions in China, while at the same time directing the Kuomintang in this country and maintaining an official residence in San Francisco.

Other Kuomintang directors in this country are importers, whose chief trade is with Formosa and whose business depends upon the Nationalist government. They include Hoo Shuck, Fong W. Doon, Fong Yue and Chin Dok Jow. Another director, Hung Jee Wong, is assistant manager of "The Young China," a pro-Koumintang, Chinese-language newspaper published in San Francisco.

The Kuomintang in this country is also organized into five regions under the leadership of Chan Jack San, San Francisco; Louie Mon Ben, San Antonio, Texas; Ng Shi Jam, Portland, Ore.; Yee Jan Tong, New York City; and Show Kwok Jing, Chicago.

To help finance its activities, the Kuomintang owns several apartment houses and operates the Chien-Kuo (Chinese) Language School in San Francisco.

Taxpayers Pay Again—The two Colorado senators — Johnson, a Democrat, and Millikin, a Republican—have set up a special office on Capitol Hill to solicit war contracts for Colorado firms. The office is run by Ed Keating, who was put on Johnson's payroll, while Millikin contributed a secretary from his Senate payroll. Actually, however, it is the taxpayers who pay all the bill, so that Colorado companies can get favored treatment. For the taxpayers pay the salaries of this office and also pay for the office space—all to help Colorado. If every senator did this for his state, the Senate Building would be swamped. Meanwhile, Senator Douglas of Illinois can't find office space on Capitol Hill for his committee investigating ethics in government.

Mac's Intelligence Chief—The recent statement by Maj. Gen. Charles Willoughby, MacArthur's intelligence chief in Korea, that he had warned Washington in advance of outbreak in Korea, is a far cry from what Willoughby told a congressional committee in Tokyo. In September of 1949, General Willoughby boasted to a group of visiting congressmen, led by M. G. Burnside of West Virginia and Charles Deane of North Carolina, that he didn't expect any war in Korea for at least two years. The attack by North Koreans came nine months later.

Does Congress Know?—Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson took a sly dig at Congress the other day. In his opinion on the "fair trade" decision that led to the department store price war, Jackson threw in this crack at the lawmakers: "To select casual statements from (congressional) floor debates—not always distinguished for candor or accuracy—as a basis for making up our minds what law Congress intended to enact is to substitute ourselves for the Congress. The Constitution, in requiring three readings of an act in each house before final enactment, intended, I take it, to make sure that Congress knew what is was passing and passed what it wanted."

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—A profound evolution, if not change, in American policy is represented by President Truman's appointment of what is called a "psychological strategy board." It will attempt to influence the peoples—rather than the governments—of other countries.

Although composed of representatives of the Department of State, the Department of Defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the new agency reports directly to the President. This means that at last an independent institution free from the handicaps of the State Department's formal diplomacy can operate freely in the field of what used to be called "psychological warfare."

It is to be noted that the head of the Central Intelligence Agency is to be a member of the board and that members from other government departments may be added as the work progresses.

Headed By Gray

Gordon Gray, who used to be Secretary of the Army, has been chosen to head it up and the outline thus far makes it appear that the objective is to combine some of the tasks that were performed by the Office of Strategic Services during the last war and some of the duties of the Office of War Information.

Broadly speaking, the purpose is to utilize the principle of infiltration which has been availed of by the Russians inside Western countries, but without stooping to the methods and practices of the Communists.

The United States has too long neglected this field of operation. It has been delayed due to the tenacity with which Secretary of State Acheson has opposed any such broad activity unless it could be controlled entirely by his department. He honestly believed it might lead to complications for the State Department. But the famous Formosa document, which was admittedly an effort to abandon truth in order to accomplish what was believed at the time to be a desirable objective, shows how such tactics can boomerang against the State Department.

The new board probably will not operate any information service. The "Voice of America" probably will go on functioning as it is but with directives of policy from the psychological board that may affect its programs.

Basically, the new board, however, cannot succeed merely because interdepartmental machinery has been set up to direct it. Something vital is lacking. It is the failure of the basic policy of the government itself to furnish the sinews of a good strategy.

It will be useless for the strategy board to try to make effective use of policies which are transparently insincere or inconsistent.

Firm Policy Needed

No board of strategy can do anything if the President and Secretary of State pursue policies that are faulty. For the State Department to favor the Nationalist government of China one day and to belittle it the next day will not enable the new psychological board to win friends for the United States in Asia. There has to be a firmness and a straightforwardness about national and international policy which will enable a strategy board to feel it is on firm ground when it undertakes a campaign to persuade the peoples of other countries as to basic truths.

Whether any psychological board can succeed in the absence of a competent leadership in international affairs is problematical. The Department of State today does not have the confidence of a united American people. The President has wrecked bipartisan co-operation. If bipartisan handling of foreign policy could be restored, if the American people could be reunited behind a leadership in world policy that they feel they can trust, then a psychological board could do an effective job inside other countries. The trouble will not be with the board but with the ingredients of strategy made available to it by the higher-ups in government itself.

A Year In Korea

By MARK SULLIVAN

On this anniversary, June 24, we have had a year of experience in Korea.

By an arresting coincidence we are just concluding a nearly two months inquiry which, beginning with President Truman's dismissal of Gen. MacArthur, went exhaustively into policy associated with Korea. We have reviewed thoroughly the Administration policy about China preceding and during Korea, and we have heard testimony and views from men high in authority about what our policy ought now to be.

And preceding this inquiry covering China and Korea we had listened to the "great debate," precipitated by the solemn warning which ex-President Hoover gave out December 20, a debate covering the broad field of our relations with the world as we confront Russian communism.

After all this, in spite of all this and because of all this, men ask where are we now, what is ahead? What they learn from Administration sources can at best give rise among the people to not much more than indefinite hope. Because the Administration's position is necessarily one of self-defense, though they do not admit this, they try to tell the country, and perhaps convince themselves, that Korea will work out all right. They strongly reject the idea that Korea will be a continuing stalemate. They say that Communist China, because of the immense number of casualties inflicted upon it, will presently be willing to make a truce. They say that after the truce it will be possible to bring about a stable situation. They imply that such a hoped-for lack of success of the Communist aggression in Korea will make Communist Russia less likely to attempt other aggressions or otherwise cause a third world war.

Administration's Handicap

Expectations that reflect the Administration or arise from utterances and proposals emanating from it do not fully allay anxious questioning about what is ahead. For one reason the Administration is under a handicap which it cannot escape. The handicap is inherent in the fact that the Administration was in power when disasters took place, the fall of China to Russian communism and the aggression in Korea. Even if the relation of the Administration to those disasters had been short of serious blame, the people would still be hesitant about having confidence in policies it proposes or views it gives out.

There is an additional reason why hopes or expectations reflecting the Administration or arising from utterances or proposals that emanate from it do not allay the people's anxiety about the future. The reason is that the people hear directly contrary judgments from persons outside the Administration who are in positions to have authoritative information and judgment and who have the confidence of large numbers of the people. One such source declares it is vain to hope that the Chinese Communist government will be worn down to willingness for truce by loss of its manpower in a war of attrition. While attrition would cause vast loss of manpower and other resources to China, it would also cause a loss to us which, though much less, would be more than we could safely bear considering our vast commitments throughout the world.

Somber Thoughts

Much of the thought current in America on this anniversary of Korea is somber. During the week preceding the anniversary there appeared in the New York Herald Tribune on successive days two articles by distinguished and well-informed columnists. Both dealt with the conflict between the Western world that embraces us and the Russian Communist world. Both presented gloomy prospects. No condensation of an article so minutely thought out and so close-knit as that of Mr. Walter Lippmann would be even faintly possible. A gist of some of the points he made is here attempted in the present writer's words. Mr. Lippman does not regard a total war as inevitable. Yet the conflicts we are being sucked into make it difficult to avoid enlargement of the war as it now is unless there is a settlement between the Soviet Union and the Western world. The possible settlement Mr. Lippmann discussed would amount to a prolonged coexistence of the two worlds behind fixed boundaries.

The best that Mr. Lippmann held out as a possibility was grim. What Mr. Stewart Alsop wrote almost simultaneously was likewise grim. A possible outcome he discussed was "an intensely insecure armed truce."

The coincidence of ideas parallel in important respects has some importance itself. A colloquial summation of what America is passing through is in the words of one who said: "We are walking a tightrope over Niagara in a high wind."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The China Lobby

Three factors enter into the propaganda of any country within the United States:

1. The legitimate provision of information and propaganda. Such agencies are maintained in the United States by nearly all countries, probably the largest being the British.

American employes of such organizations are required by law to register as foreign agents. This list has heretofore always been a public document, available to anyone who cared to look at it. For some reason, not readily understood, this has now become a secret list, perhaps to protect Washington lawyers.

2. The various organizations of Americans who voluntarily spend their own time and money being pro or anti this or that. The country is full of them. As regards China, there are a number of associations in favor of Nationalist or Communist China. Some of these have been effective.

3. The clandestine efforts of foreign governments by diverse means to influence public opinion. These are naturally not always traceable. For instance, Nationalist China had, during the war years, set up agencies in Washington under the general management of T. V. Soong, David Corcoran (brother of Tommy) and Ludwik Rajchman to operate various enterprises in connection with loans, supplies, etc. Whether such an agency also engaged in influencing views, I do not know. The natural supposition must be that every country seeks to win friends and does the best it can. And the winning of friendship is a gentle art with many techniques.

Soviet Russia employed Amtorg in numerous ways, from trade and commerce to espionage. To what extent other governments employ similar agencies for these purposes has never been established in a quotable manner.

The phrase, "The China Lobby," has thus far not been defined as belonging to the categories described above. If it is found that an agency of the Chinese government employed a publicity firm, such as the Allied Syndicates, Inc. or some other, this is legitimate and there can be no criticism either of the employer or the employe. The Allied Syndicates has been close to the Democratic party, having had John Sullivan, former Secretary of the Navy, and Clark Clifford, former counsellor to the President, associated with it. It has also been suggested that a member of the President's office had recommended this firm.

There can be no reasonable objection to the employment of this firm for straight publicity work, if that is what they did. I have no information to the contrary.

The cry against "The China Lobby" originated in the Russell Committee among those senators who are violently anti-MacArthur. Their object is to detract attention from the failings of the Administration to the protagonists of Chiang Kai-shek. Their butt is not the hired public relations counsel nor even the Chinese themselves; it is to bring odium to American citizens who have spent their own time and money to oppose the Communist conquest of China. They would like to pillory Alfred Kohlberg, a citizen who is devoted to anti-communism.

The reason that these politicians hate Kohlberg is that they believe that he is responsible for Senator Joe McCarthy — which would be something for anyone to take on. Joe McCarthy and Kohlberg are friends and serve in the same causes. So are a great many other Americans. It will do no harm to bring it all into the open, not by smearing nor by sly, undefined accusations, but by setting forth the virtue of these Americans who inhibited the State Department policy of aiding Communist China.

As a matter of fact, it is encouraging to see Americans put up the fight they have against Communist China. Perhaps had there been no Kohnbergs, Soviet Russia would, by now, be in Burma, Siam and Iran.

I know this man and have often wondered at his fanatical insistence in a tough fight. A merchant, he has devoted time, money and experience to the fight. He got into it by accident; that is, he believed that the Institute of Pacific Relations of which he had been a member and to which he had contributed, had misrepresented itself to him. He got sore.

The more he got into that fight, the more he recognized that the battle had to be broadened until it included an attack on all Communist activity, particularly right here in the United States.

He has proved to be an effective fighter and a competent leader in a good cause. Investigators of Kohlberg will have a tough time discovering any anti-American attitudes.

We can understand England losing a couple of loose diplomats. But why advertise for them?

We've had so many stinkers loop out for Russia with our top puzzles that we are printing travel folders for rats.

If those turnips want to go home to Moscow, we'll give 'em excursion rates. Good riddance and bad rubbish.

We have the big secret left. The spies still don't know what kind of camphor we used to mothball the fleet.

Expert Witness Declares Codocil Writing Forgery

A handwriting expert who testified in the trial of Bruno Hauptmann for the slaying of the Lindberg baby in the early 1930's was the star witness at a hearing yesterday in Orphans Court on the validity of a codicil to the will of a Cumberland man.

Arthur P. Myers of Baltimore the handwriting expert, examined the codicil and papers bearing the writing of J. G. Berton Treiber, whose will was admitted to probate August 22, 1950.

Myers stated flatly that the codicil was a "barefaced forgery of the worst kind."

Petition Filed

The background of the hearing today follows:

A petition was filed November 14, 1950 by Lillian E. McKenzie, who was described by attorneys for the original beneficiaries as the one-time housekeeper for Treiber, alleging that a paper written under date of June 22, 1950 was a codicil to the will, which was admitted to probate in Orphans Court on August 22, 1950.

The alleged codicil was presented to Orphans Court by Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the woman. The codicil provided that a house at 439 Columbia Street be devised to Lillian E. McKenzie. The court signed a show cause order requiring the beneficiaries of the original will to appear and give their reasons why codicil should not be admitted to probate.

The beneficiaries, Mrs. Beatrice Smith, William Wagner and the Shriners Crippled Children's Hospital by their attorneys, W. Earle Cobey, William R. Carscaden and C. William Gilchrist filed an answer to the court order stating the papers set forth was not in the handwriting of J. G. Berton Treiber.

Testimony Taken

A hearing was set for yesterday in Orphans Court and Attorney Ryan filed an instrument asking the court to dismiss the proceedings. The beneficiaries, through their attorneys, objected to the dismissal and testimony was taken.

After testimony the Orphans Court, consisting of Chief Judge William A. Abbott, and Judges Hugh Stevenson and R. French VanMeter, signed an order dismissing the codicil proceedings with prejudice, in effect holding that the codicil was a forgery.

A number of papers signed by Treiber were introduced in evidence and Myers testified they were entirely different from the writing in the codicil. The judges were handed copies of the papers in question and Myers gave them flashlight like devices through which they could examine the papers microscopically.

Entirely Different

Myers told the court that the slant of the letters, the impression on the papers, shading of letters, and the capital letters in the codicil were entirely different than the writing of Treiber.

"Mr. Treiber could not possibly have written the codicil", Myers declared. The expert added that the signature on the original will was the genuine writing of Treiber.

Special Services Set

Hal Webb former director of the G.I. Gospel Hour and former director of the Youth for Christ program in the Philippine Islands, will conduct services next week at the Salvation Army Citadel, 115 North Mechanic Street.

The evangelistic services open Sunday at 2:30 p.m. and will be held each day at 8 p.m.

Expert Witness Declares Codocil Writing Forgery

A handwriting expert who testified in the trial of Bruno Hauptmann for the slaying of the Lindberg baby in the early 1930's was the star witness at a hearing yesterday in Orphans Court on the validity of a codicil to the will of a Cumberland man.

Arthur P. Myers of Baltimore the handwriting expert, examined the codicil and papers bearing the writing of J. G. Berton Treiber, whose will was admitted to probate August 22, 1950.

Myers stated flatly that the codicil was a "barefaced forgery of the worst kind."

Petition Filed

The background of the hearing today follows:

A petition was filed November 14, 1950 by Lillian E. McKenzie, who was described by attorneys for the original beneficiaries as the one-time housekeeper for Treiber, alleging that a paper written under date of June 22, 1950 was a codicil to the will, which was admitted to probate in Orphans Court on August 22, 1950.

The alleged codicil was presented to Orphans Court by Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the woman. The codicil provided that a house at 439 Columbia Street be devised to Lillian E. McKenzie. The court signed a show cause order requiring the beneficiaries of the original will to appear and give their reasons why codicil should not be admitted to probate.

The beneficiaries, Mrs. Beatrice Smith, William Wagner and the Shriners Crippled Children's Hospital by their attorneys, W. Earle Cobey, William R. Carscaden and C. William Gilchrist filed an answer to the court order stating the papers set forth was not in the handwriting of J. G. Berton Treiber.

Testimony Taken

A hearing was set for yesterday in Orphans Court and Attorney Ryan filed an instrument asking the court to dismiss the proceedings. The beneficiaries, through their attorneys, objected to the dismissal and testimony was taken.

After testimony the Orphans Court, consisting of Chief Judge William A. Abbott, and Judges Hugh Stevenson and R. French VanMeter, signed an order dismissing the codicil proceedings with prejudice, in effect holding that the codicil was a forgery.

A number of papers signed by Treiber were introduced in evidence and Myers testified they were entirely different from the writing in the codicil. The judges were handed copies of the papers in question and Myers gave them flashlight like devices through which they could examine the papers microscopically.

Entirely Different

Myers told the court that the slant of the letters, the impression on the papers, shading of letters, and the capital letters in the codicil were entirely different than the writing of Treiber.

"Mr. Treiber could not possibly have written the codicil", Myers declared. The expert added that the signature on the original will was the genuine writing of Treiber.

Special Services Set

The single ring ceremony will be solemnized in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, Cumberland, Md., with Rev. Louis Glantz, O. F. M., Cap., pastor, officiating. White gladioli will be used on the altars and in the church decorations. Prof. Peter Schumacher will play a program of nuptial music preceeding the ceremony as well as the wedding march from Lohengrin and Mendelsohn's recessional.

The bridal party includes Mrs. James DeWitt, Yeadon, Pa., as matron of honor; Mrs. Kenneth B. Shaw, sister of the bridegroom, Roslyn, Pa., and Miss Beatrice Ann Bright, Kenneth Square, Pa., bridesmaids. James DeWitt, Yeadon, will serve as Mr. Traugott's best man. The ushers will be Robert Lambert, John Fretz, Lewis Silverman, Elkins Bright, Kennett Square, Pa., brides- and Dr. Donald Kamsler, Danville, Pa.

Given in marriage by her brother, Henry R. Brett, San Francisco, Calif., the bride will wear a white embroidered Swiss organdy gown with high neckline and small collar, short sleeves with matching mitts and a fitted bodice. Floating panels of embroidered organdy covers the marquisette skirt which terminates in a short full train. Her illusion veil is held in place by a cap of tiny white flowers. She will carry a colonial bouquet of white larkspur, white delphenium and babybreath.

Her attendants will wear gowns of apple blossom marquisette, trimmed with Venice-type lace, and fashioned with a stole, snug bodice and full billowy skirts. Mrs. DeWitt will be in pink; Mrs. Shaw in turquoise and Miss Bright in yellow. Matching caps of horsehair braid and nylon mitts complete their costumes. They will carry identical colonial bouquets of summer flowers.

The bride's aunt, Miss Pauline McEvoy, with whom she resided, will be attired in a street length dress of heliotrope silk shantung. With it she is going to wear a lilac colored hat and slippers and a corsage of pansies.

Mrs. Traugott is wearing an aqua lace gown for her son's wedding. A pink hat, trimmed with roses, pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses completes her costume.

Following the ceremony Miss McEvoy will entertain with a wedding reception at her home, Washington Street, honoring her niece and her bridal party. The guests will be received before an archway formed by palms, white gladioli and carnations. The bridal motif will be repeated in the tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, and the floral centerpiece matching the bride's bouquet.

Miss Brett received her A. B. from the College of New Rochelle, New York, and her M. S. in Library Science from Drexel Institute of Technology, Philadelphia. For the past year she was employed as head librarian of the Riverdale Neighborhood and Library Association, New York, New York.

Her attendants will wear gowns of apple blossom marquisette, trimmed with Venice-type lace, and fashioned with a stole, snug bodice and full billowy skirts. Mrs. DeWitt will be in pink; Mrs. Shaw in turquoise and Miss Bright in yellow. Matching caps of horsehair braid and nylon mitts complete their costumes. They will carry identical colonial bouquets of summer flowers.

The bride's aunt, Miss Pauline McEvoy, with whom she resided, will be attired in a street length dress of heliotrope silk shantung. With it she is going to wear a lilac colored hat and slippers and a corsage of pansies.

Mrs. Traugott is wearing an aqua lace gown for her son's wedding. A pink hat, trimmed with roses, pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses completes her costume.

Following the ceremony Miss McEvoy will entertain with a wedding reception at her home, Washington Street, honoring her niece and her bridal party. The guests will be received before an archway formed by palms, white gladioli and carnations. The bridal motif will be repeated in the tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, and the floral centerpiece matching the bride's bouquet.

Miss Brett received her A. B. from the College of New Rochelle, New York, and her M. S. in Library Science from Drexel Institute of Technology, Philadelphia. For the past year she was employed as head librarian of the Riverdale Neighborhood and Library Association, New York, New York.

Mr. Traugott is a graduate of Cheltenham High School, Cheltenham, Pa. He entered the United States Navy as an aviation cadet and in his training attended the University of Richmond, Richmond, Va., and Duke University, Durham, N. C. Upon completion of his war service he extended his studies at Temple University, Philadelphia. Mr. Traugott is associated in business with his father as sales manager for Bryant Heating Corporation.

Searchlight Beams Bring To Earth Some Of Secrets Of Air 60 Miles Up

By RENNIE TAYLOR

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Powerful searchlight beams pointing straight into the night sky are bringing to earth some of the secrets of the upper air which must be penetrated to prepare the way for the age of rockets and guided missiles.

The density and chemical composition of air far above the levels to which planes or balloons will go are being determined by this relatively inexpensive method, scientists told the American Meteorological Society.

What the air is like more than 60 miles up is being determined now, and the ceiling may be increased in the future, said Dr. Rudolf Penndorf of the Air Force Research Laboratories at Cambridge, Mass.

Edward V. Ashburn, of the Navy's ordnance test station in California's Mojave Desert, told how light beams are being used to sample atmospheric density far above the limit of stratospheric balloons, whose ceilings are around 20 miles.

To make the method workable the experiments have to get as far away as possible from the lights of cities and the beams of airline beacons which sweep the night skies.

Dr. Penndorf and his colleagues are experimenting on some mountain peaks in New Mexico. Ashburn and co-workers have been operating from Cactus Peak, a desert landmark overlooking the Navy's experiment station near Inyokern, Calif.

Density measurements by searchlight beam are made by observing how the shaft of light gradually fades with altitude until it can be observed no longer.

Instruments off to the side measure the degree of fading by recording the intensity of the beam at given heights. The amount of fading is a measure of the number of atoms or other particles in the air at that level.

Dr. Penndorf uses spectrometers and other instruments from side positions to analyze the light beam at its upper levels. Since all atoms and molecules have the power to absorb or reflect light, each kind affecting only one particular light frequency, observers can tell what kind of particles are working on the upper end of the beam. That means they know what chemicals are present.

Little is known yet about the upper atmosphere because scientists have had only limited means of probing it. They have been able to make observations more than 100 miles up by attaching recording instruments to V-2 and other big rockets, but rockets are scarce and expensive.

The light beam costs little and gives them a new instrument for upper air research.

Dr. I. H. Hand, of the U. S. Weather Observatory at Blue Hill, Milton, Mass., reported the development of a method for measuring with great accuracy the amount of energy which the sun can deliver to vertical walls.

This fits in with experimental work to determine whether engineers ever will be able to use solar heat for houses without involving excessive costs.

G. Ronald Armbruster Gets Roger W. Babson Trophy

G. Ronald Armbruster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Armbruster, Sr., of 52 Marion Street, was graduated with the degree of bachelor of science in business administration on June 16 from Babson Institute of Business Administration, Babson Park, Mass.

The president of the college awarded Armbruster the Roger W. Babson Achievement Award, the highest honor that can be bestowed by the college on any student. It is given for scholarship, leadership, and participation in sports. The presentation of the award is the climax of the graduation activities.

Armbruster, who majored in accounting, entered Babson Institute in the fall of 1948, after 18 months' service with the Air Force, six months in the Panama Canal Zone.

He has been on the dean's list for scholarship for eight terms. His extracurricular activities have included membership in Delta Sigma Pi, general business fraternity; Society for the Advancement of Management, a national professional group; Blue Key, national honorary fraternity; chairman of Senior Job Placement Committee, and president of the Senior Class. Hopkins Observes Freshman Ruling

BALTIMORE, June 21 (AP)—Johns Hopkins University runs a unique intercollegiate sports program. Everybody gets in free at home contests and opposing colleges neither get nor pay anything for playing.

Athletic Director Marshall Turner today announced another unusual situation. While other universities with big sports incomes are claiming they will have to use freshmen on their varsities next fall, Turner said first-year students will continue ineligible.

Plenty of upper class students for 11 varsity sports, Turner said. There is a shortage, though, of coaches.

Turner is looking for two replacements for three who have been called back to military service. That will give Johns Hopkins a coaching staff of six—including Turner.

Mayor Thomas S. Post was not available for comment yesterday but at the June 7 meeting he decined to register approval of the change, saying he wanted more time to think over the plan after wondering "if safety were being sacrificed by speed".

Police Commissioner John J. Long, sponsor of the plan to speed up traffic, could not be reached for comment yesterday.

Red Cross Head Says No News From Lejeune Is Good News

Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary of Allegany county Red Cross Chapter, announced yesterday that military authorities reported all next of kin of persons injured or killed in the explosion last Wednesday at Camp Lejeune, N. C., have been notified and acknowledgement has been received from each.

Mrs. Witherup said that many men from this area are stationed at the Marine base, and that inquires from anxious service families have flooded the Red Cross office since the accident occurred. As a result, Mrs. Witherup telephoned the field director at the camp yesterday.

"No news is good news," Mrs. Witherup said, and parents and wives should not be concerned about not hearing from their men. As the field director explained, his office is overtaxed with wires from everywhere and they are too numerous to answer at present. Only persons whose relations were injured or killed in the explosion were notified. He also stated that a list of persons killed or wounded could not be released.

The accident which occurred last Wednesday at the Marine base, was a result of two mortar shells which burst short of their target and exploded among unprotected troops.

Bar Would Keep Five On Court Of Appeals

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 22 (AP)—The Maryland State Bar Association voted overwhelmingly today in favor of keeping five as the maximum number of judges on the Court of Appeals.

Chief Judge Ogle Marbury had proposed the membership be increased to seven. It was reduced from eight to five about seven years ago and will reach that number next year when Judge C. Gus Grason retires.

Louis Mayer Quitting

HOLLYWOOD, June 22 (AP)—Louis B. Mayer, co-founder of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studio, announced through a spokesman that he was quitting.

Trucking Firm Fined $1,594.95; Law Attacked

BALTIMORE, June 22 (AP) — A Baltimore trucking firm had to pay a $1,594.95 fine for overloading yesterday, but the judge who assessed the fine criticized the "rubber stamp" law which dictates the penalty.

Sentencing of the R & F Transportation Co. occurred in the court of Magistrate Harrison M. Sandrock.

The new state truck-weight law makes mandatory fines of two cents per pound up to 4,999 pounds and six cents per pound for the total overload when it is above 5,000 pounds.

The Baltimore firm was fined for running one truck 12,300 pounds overweight on registration; another 9,740 pounds overweight and a third with an axle overload of 11,400 pounds.

G. Ronald Armbruster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Armbruster, Sr., of 52 Marion Street, was graduated with the degree of bachelor of science in business administration on June 16 from Babson Institute of Business Administration, Babson Park, Mass.

The president of the college awarded Armbruster the Roger W. Babson Achievement Award, the highest honor that can be bestowed by the college on any student. It is given for scholarship, leadership, and participation in sports. The presentation of the award is the climax of the graduation activities.

Armbruster, who majored in accounting, entered Babson Institute in the fall of 1948, after 18 months' service with the Air Force, six months in the Panama Canal Zone.

He has been on the dean's list for scholarship for eight terms. His extracurricular activities have included membership in Delta Sigma Pi, general business fraternity; Society for the Advancement of Management, a national professional group; Blue Key, national honorary fraternity; chairman of Senior Job Placement Committee, and president of the Senior Class. He was active in intramural sports at the college.

He is a graduate of Fort Hill High School and is married to the former Evaline Wilson.

Hopkins Observes Freshman Ruling

BALTIMORE, June 21 (AP)—Johns Hopkins University runs a unique intercollegiate sports program. Everybody gets in free at home contests and opposing colleges neither get nor pay anything for playing.

Athletic Director Marshall Turner today announced another unusual situation. While other universities with big sports incomes are claiming they will have to use freshmen on their varsities next fall, Turner said first-year students will continue ineligible.

Plenty of upper class students for 11 varsity sports, Turner said. There is a shortage, though, of coaches.

Turner is looking for two replacements for three who have been called back to military service. That will give Johns Hopkins a coaching staff of six—including Turner.

a walk light", Commissioner Tederick concluded, adding he did not think there has been any significant change in the attitude of the council.

Mayor Thomas S. Post was not available for comment yesterday but at the June 7 meeting he decined to register approval of the change, saying he wanted more time to think over the plan after wondering "if safety were being sacrificed by speed".

Police Commissioner John J. Long, sponsor of the plan to speed up traffic, could not be reached for comment yesterday.

Girls learn to read earlier, faster and with more understanding than boys.

The speed of sound is about 760 miles an hour at sea level.

Red Cross Head Says No News From Lejeune Is Good News

Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary of Allegany county Red Cross Chapter, announced yesterday that military authorities reported all next of kin of persons injured or killed in the explosion last Wednesday at Camp Lejeune, N. C., have been notified and acknowledgement has been received from each.

Mrs. Witherup said that many men from this area are stationed at the Marine base, and that inquires from anxious service families have flooded the Red Cross office since the accident occurred. As a result, Mrs. Witherup telephoned the field director at the camp yesterday.

"No news is good news," Mrs. Witherup said, and parents and wives should not be concerned about not hearing from their men. As the field director explained, his office is overtaxed with wires from everywhere and they are too numerous to answer at present. Only persons whose relations were injured or killed in the explosion were notified. He also stated that a list of persons killed or wounded could not be released.

The accident which occurred last Wednesday at the Marine base, was a result of two mortar shells which burst short of their target and exploded among unprotected troops.

Academy Award Winner Called In Red Industry

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Screen Producer Robert Rossen, whose picture "All the King's Men" won the Academy award, has been called to appear before the House Un-American Activities Committee next Monday.

With Movie Actor J. Edward Bromberg, he is scheduled to testify in the committee's nearly completed investigation of Communist influences in Hollywood.

Bar Would Keep Five On Court Of Appeals

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 22 (AP)—The Maryland State Bar Association voted overwhelmingly today in favor of keeping five as the maximum number of judges on the Court of Appeals.

Chief Judge Ogle Marbury had proposed the membership be increased to seven. It was reduced from eight to five about seven years ago and will reach that number next year when Judge C. Gus Grason retires.

Louis Mayer Quitting

HOLLYWOOD, June 22 (AP)—Louis B. Mayer, co-founder of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studio, announced through a spokesman that he was quitting.

But, he said, "I am going to remain in motion picture production, God willing. I am going to be more active than I have at any time during the past 15 years."

Trucking Firm Fined $1,594.95; Law Attacked

BALTIMORE, June 22 (AP) — A Baltimore trucking firm had to pay a $1,594.95 fine for overloading yesterday, but the judge who assessed the fine criticized the "rubber stamp" law which dictates the penalty.

Sentencing of the R & F Transportation Co. occurred in the court of Magistrate Harrison M. Sandrock.

The new state truck-weight law makes mandatory fines of two cents per pound up to 4,999 pounds and six cents per pound for the total overload when it is above 5,000 pounds.

The Baltimore firm was fined for running one truck 12,300 pounds overweight on registration; another 9,740 pounds overweight and a third with an axle overload of 11,400 pounds.

Stranahan Goes To Semi-Finals

John Hare, Jim Blair And Bob Olson Score

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 22 (AP)—Frank Stranahan and three rank out-siders gained the western amateur golf's semi-finals today.

In one of the greatest finishes of darkhorses in 49 western tournaments, John Hare of Indianapolis barged into tomorrow's 36 holes against 19-year-old Jim Blair of Jefferson City, Mo., and Stranahan squeeed in to take on Bob Olson of Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Stranahan's standard par on the last hole in the shaky finish was good enough to oust Jack Munger of Dallas, Tex., who three putted 1-up. Olson upset Walker Cup ace Jim McHale of Philadelphia, 2 and 1.

Hare cooled off Wendell Aldrich, the 30-year-old Angola, Ind., dentist, 1 up. Blair, the Oklahoma Aggie sophomore son of Missouri's lieutenant governor, defeated Jim English of Red Oak, Ia., the 1950 Trans-Mississippi titlist, 2 and 1.

Medalist Stranahan, in quest of his third western amateur title after winning in 1946 and 1949, found 36-year-old Munger, an insurance executive and Dallas City champion, a tiger.

Giants Defeat Cubs In Tenth

Mays' 3-Run Homer Decides Game, 9-6

CHICAGO, June 22 (AP) — Rookie Willie Mays broke up a see-saw struggle with a three-run homer in the 10th inning to give the New York Giants a 9-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The lean negro flychaser, with the Giants less than a month, connected off the veteran Dutch Leonard. Singles by Whitey Lockman and Ray Noble proceeded Mays' 370-foot wallop over the left field bleachers.

The Cubs had tied the game 6-6 in the ninth inning when Hal Jeffcoat hit a two - run homer off reliever George Spencer, who gained his fourth victory when Mays connected.

Monte Irvin and Billy Rigney also smacked homers for the Giants. Irvin's belt, a three-run job, capped a five-run fourth inning that overcome a 3-0 Chicago lead.

The Cubs had belted starter Sal Maglie for four hits and three runs in the third inning. Box:

Harold Sampson, New Jersey light-heavyweight, who will tangle with Randall "Skeets" Starkey, Wiley Ford, W. Va., 172-pounder, in the feature 10-round match of a pro boxing show next Thursday night at Penn Avenue Field, was decisioned by Joe Giardello at the Eastern Parkway Arena, New York, several months ago and not on Thursday night.

Peter J. "Bunny" Buntag and Promoter Charles Hensell last night asked the News to correct the story which appeared on yesterday's sports page.

Tony Wakeman, sports announcer for Station WTTG, Washington, D. C., informed the News last night that a film of the Sampson-Giardello match was televised on Channel No. 5 out of Washington on Thursday night. A local television viewer and one of Cumberland's best fight fans told the News the fight was held Thursday.

The report that Sampson lost was true but the date of the match was incorrect.

Next week's fight will be Starkey's 25th since turning pro. He is undefeated and holds a win over Sampson.

Sweep Three Races On Thames River

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 22 (AP)—Harvard's stalwart crews gave their retiring coach, Tom Bolles, an exciting parting gift today, a clean sweep over Yale, with the varsity scoring a five-length upset.

It was the second year in a row that the Crimson's varsity, junior varsity and freshman shells swept the Thames River.

When it was all over, just before dusk, Bolles, who becomes Harvard's athletic director on July 1, said: "They rowed very well, and I'm thankful it's over."

Jim Rathschmidt, completing his first year as coach of Yale, which had been unbeaten against American crews until this evening, remarked:

"It was a great Harvard crew."

Harvard won the two-mile junior varsity race by nearly a length in 10:08. Yale's time was 10:11.6.

The Crimson scored by four lengths in the freshman two-mile sprint, winning in 10:27.4. Yale was clocked in 10:43.2.

Yankees Triumph, Chisox Lose; Midland Legion Wins, 15-1

Stephens Hits Homer To Beat Pale Hose, 6-5

Gumpert Suffers 1st Loss; Allie Reynolds .. Blanks Indians, 6-0

BOSTON, June 22 (AP) — Vern Stephens' two-run homer snapped previously unbeaten Randy Gumpert's seven game pitching streak and gave the Boston Red Sox a 6-5 victory over the top place Chicago White Sox tonight in the opener of a four game series. The loss cut the Chicago lead over the New York Yankees to two and a half games.

Stephens circuit blow, his 10th of the season, came after Ted Williams had scored Billy Goodman with a two bagger to left field in the fourth inning. Gumpert, who had been knocked out of the box without penalty by the St. Louis in April, was replaced by Luis Aloma in the fifth inning.

Lefty Mel Parnell, who gave the Sox their previous win in seven previous starts against the Chisox, weakened in the eighth but was given effective relief assistance by Ellis Kinder. Score:

Stranahan Goes To Semi-Finals

John Hare, Jim Blair And Bob Olson Score

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 22 (AP)—Frank Stranahan and three rank out-siders gained the western amateur golf's semi-finals today.

In one of the greatest finishes of darkhorses in 49 western tournaments, John Hare of Indianapolis barged into tomorrow's 36 holes against 19-year-old Jim Blair of Jefferson City, Mo., and Stranahan squeeed in to take on Bob Olson of Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Stranahan's standard par on the last hole in the shaky finish was good enough to oust Jack Munger of Dallas, Tex., who three putted 1-up. Olson upset Walker Cup ace Jim McHale of Philadelphia, 2 and 1.

Hare cooled off Wendell Aldrich, the 30-year-old Angola, Ind., dentist, 1 up. Blair, the Oklahoma Aggie sophomore son of Missouri's lieutenant governor, defeated Jim English of Red Oak, Ia., the 1950 Trans-Mississippi titlist, 2 and 1.

Medalist Stranahan, in quest of his third western amateur title after winning in 1946 and 1949, found 36-year-old Munger, an insurance executive and Dallas City champion, a tiger.

CHICAGO, June 22 (AP) — Rookie Willie Mays broke up a see-saw struggle with a three-run homer in the 10th inning to give the New York Giants a 9-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs had tied the game 6-6 in the ninth inning when Hal Jeffcoat hit a two - run homer off reliever George Spencer, who gained his fourth victory when Mays connected.

Monte Irvin and Billy Rigney also smacked homers for the Giants. Irvin's belt, a three-run job, capped a five-run fourth inning that overcome a 3-0 Chicago lead.

Sampson's Loss On TV Was Film Of Past Match

Harold Sampson, New Jersey light-heavyweight, who will tangle with Randall "Skeets" Starkey, Wiley Ford, W. Va., 172-pounder, in the feature 10-round match of a pro boxing show next Thursday night at Penn Avenue Field, was decisioned by Joe Giardello at the Eastern Parkway Arena, New York, several months ago and not on Thursday night.

Peter J. "Bunny" Buntag and Promoter Charles Hensell last night asked the News to correct the story which appeared on yesterday's sports page.

Tony Wakeman, sports announcer for Station WTTG, Washington, D. C., informed the News last night that a film of the Sampson-Giardello match was televised on Channel No. 5 out of Washington on Thursday night. A local television viewer and one of Cumberland's best fight fans told the News the fight was held Thursday.

The report that Sampson lost was true but the date of the match was incorrect.

Next week's fight will be Starkey's 25th since turning pro. He is undefeated and holds a win over Sampson.

Harvard Crews Win Over Yale

Sweep Three Races On Thames River

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 22 (AP)—Harvard's stalwart crews gave their retiring coach, Tom Bolles, an exciting parting gift today, a clean sweep over Yale, with the varsity scoring a five-length upset.

It was the second year in a row that the Crimson's varsity, junior varsity and freshman shells swept the Thames River.

Harvard's big boys gave and took in the four mile race, and in the end won going away from favored Yale by the biggest margin since 1940. The Crimson swept across the finish line in 21 minutes and 26 seconds, just 22 and 8-10 seconds better than the blue.

When it was all over, just before dusk, Bolles, who becomes Harvard's athletic director on July 1, said: "They rowed very well, and I'm thankful it's over."

Jim Rathschmidt, completing his first year as coach of Yale, which had been unbeaten against American crews until this evening, remarked:

"It was a great Harvard crew."

Harvard won the two-mile junior varsity race by nearly a length in 10:08. Yale's time was 10:11.6.

The Crimson scored by four lengths in the freshman two-mile sprint, winning in 10:27.4. Yale was clocked in 10:43.2.

The old clubhouse, built in 1870, is shown at the far right and will be retained.

Pintor Annexes Tremont Stakes

Defeats Jet Master In Stunning Upset

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP) — A stunning upset in the 59th running of the Tremont Stakes, a five and a half furlong sprint for 2-year-olds, marked the opening of the summer meeting of the Queens County Jockey Club at Aqueduct Race Track today.

Marlboro Stud Farm's Jet Master, who set a track record in winning the National Stallion Stakes at Belmont on June 13, 1-4 favorite in the betting with the crowd of 16,952, was defeated by a head by Montpelier's Pintor.

Jack Amiel's Count Flame, a stablemate of Count Turf, the Kentucky Derby winner, was third three lengths back. Vera S. Bragg's Mixture and Russell A. Firestone's Sirad brought up the rear.

Jet Master, toting 126 pounds, four over scale, was sent to the front at the break by Eddie Arcaro and held sway until the final 50 yards when Pintor, ridden by Hedley Woodhouse, challenged and got his nose in front just at the wire. Pintor was in with 117 pounds.

Timed in 1:05 2-5, three-fifths off Apache's track record set in 1944, Pintor returned mutuels of $15.00, $2.80 and $2.10. Jet Master was $2.20 and $2.10 and Count Flame $2.10 to show.

Pat O'Sullivan And Patty Berg Play For Title

PHILADELPHIA, June 22 (AP)—Pat O'Sullivan, a happy Irish colleen from Orange, Conn., upset medalist Louise Suggs today and went into the finals of the women's Western Open Golf Championship against heavily-favored Patty Berg.

The 23-year-old England amateur, daughter of a Connecticut supreme court justice, startled a gallery of 1,200 by eliminating Miss Suggs, three-time champion from Carrollton, Ga., 4 and 2.

Miss Berg, meanwhile, conquered an attack of putting jitters to oust Marjorie Lindsay, 26-year-old Illinois amateur champion from Decatur, Ill., 5 and 3. After turning all even, the Minneapolis redhead won five of the six holes played on the backside to end matters in a hurry.

The finalist will clash in the 36-hole title match starting at 8:30 a. m. (EST) tomorrow over the 6,660-yard, 38-37—75 Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A TOO COSTLY LUXURY

RUFFING of losers with the dummy's short trumps is such an enjoyable pastime to the indifferent declarer that he indulges in it as if it were the most delectable luxury in the world. It almost seems, to a kibitzer, as if ruffing out losers were the purpose of the game. Veteran players seldom embark on such a plan of action without first inspecting the lineup to see if those losers could be parked on an established or establishable suit after the clearing of trumps.

	♠ 8 7 ♥ K 10 5 ♦ Q J 10 6 4 ♣ A 5 2
♠ K Q 9 ♥ 7 3 2 ♦ A K 5 2 ♣ K J 4	N W E S	♠ J 10 5 3 ♥ 9 4 ♦ 8 7 3 ♣ 10 9 8 7
	♠ A 6 4 2 ♥ A Q J 8 6 ♦ 9 ♣ Q 6 3

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	Pass	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	1 NT	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	4 ♥

With a choice of bids available, North picked the soundest when he jumped into a heart game after learning two important facts from South's "reverse" bid of spades after the heart call—first, that South had quite a good hand and, second, that he held at least five hearts. He was right in assuming that the side had enough strength for the game, but wrong in reckoning South could give it the right play.

West made the none-too-sound opening of his diamond K, in view of North's No Trump call after the suit had been shown by the opponents. He hastily shifted when he saw the dummy, picking the spade K. South spied a chance to ruff out spade losers, apparently his heart's delight, so led the 2 to the Q. West returned a trump now, his 2, which might have been a sound first lead. Winning with the Q, South ruffed the spade 4 with the heart K, came to his hand with a diamond ruff and ruffed his last spade with the heart 10. Back with another diamond ruff, he cleared trumps, but then had to give up two tricks in clubs to be down one.

A sounder declarer, upon winning the spade K with the A, would have planned to discard losers on diamonds. A heart to the K, followed by the diamond Q, discarding a black card, would have enabled West to score the spade Q for his side's third trick. But that would have been all. No matter what West returned, South then could have drawn trumps and finished up with diamonds to discard his losers.

Local Firm Gets Contract For Road Building Material

The Garland-Norton Petroleum Company, 12-18 West Roberts Street, yesterday morning was awarded the contract on its low bid to supply the country with 180,000 gallons of asphalt for use on county roads.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners gave the contract to the local firm as it quoted prices lower than the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company of Richmond, Va.

Bids on emulsified asphalt were quoted by the local firm at 11.45 cents per gallon by tank truck and 11.75 cents per gallon for cutback asphalt.

Prices Quoted

The prices by tank car were as follows: Delivery at Cumberland, 11.20 cents for emulsified and 11.40 cents for cutback asphalt. Frostburg, 11.45 for emulsified and 11.64 for cutback. Mt. Savage, 11.45 for emulsified and 11.64 for cutback.

Only one bid was received on No. 2, 3, and 4 crushed stone and the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company made the offer. Action on accepting or rejecting this bid was held up several weeks to determine if the quarry at Corriganville where the stone is to be obtained will be in operation by that time.

The local company quoted the following prices:

Delivery by rail to Cumberland, $2.30 per ton; Frostburg, $3.21; Mt. Savage, $3.21 and Westernport, $3.29 per ton. Delivery by truck will be $2.50 for Cumberland; $2.70 for Frostburg; $2.70 for Mt. Savage and $3.29 for Westernport.

Could Use Own Trucks

The bids also quoted a flat $2 per ton if the county used its own trucks to haul the material from the quarry to where it will be used. This seemed to meet the approval of the county commissioners.

The road report for the period covering May 16 to 31 was submitted by J. Walker Chapman, supervisor of the County Roads Department.

He listed expenditures of $11,377.70 with labor costing $6,194.58, materials, $3,099.67 and equipment, $2,083.45.

The report reflects the accelerated road repair program. Work was done in all but a few of the districts of the county. In addition there was work at the county garage and various bridges and on county buildings.

Local Guard Units Prepare For Two-Week Encampment

The convoy will pick up other First Battalion company cooks at Hagerstown and the battalion medical company at Frederick enroute to the Virginia encampment.

There the cooks will be dispatched to the First Battalion area where they will set up kitchens.

Wednesday, Lt. Joseph W. Ansel, battalion motor officer, will leave with the advance detachment. Six enlisted men will be from Headquarters and Headquarters Company and two each from Companies C and D.

They will make essential arrangements for the battalion's two week training.

Saturday at 8 a. m., the two companies from here and the Frostburg unit will leave on a troop train from the B. and O. station here.

Pintor Annexes Tremont Stakes

Defeats Jet Master In Stunning Upset

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP) — A stunning upset in the 59th running of the Tremont Stakes, a five and a half furlong sprint for 2-year-olds, marked the opening of the summer meeting of the Queens County Jockey Club at Aqueduct Race Track today.

Marlboro Stud Farm's Jet Master, who set a track record in winning the National Stallion Stakes at Belmont on June 13, 1-4 favorite in the betting with the crowd of 16,952, was defeated by a head by Montpelier's Pintor.

Jack Amiel's Count Flame, a stablemate of Count Turf, the Kentucky Derby winner, was third three lengths back. Vera S. Bragg's Mixture and Russell A. Firestone's Sirad brought up the rear.

Jet Master, toting 126 pounds, four over scale, was sent to the front at the break by Eddie Arcaro and held sway until the final 50 yards when Pintor, ridden by Hedley Woodhouse, challenged and got his nose in front just at the wire. Pintor was in with 117 pounds.

Timed in 1:05 2-5, three-fifths off Apache's track record set in 1944, Pintor returned mutuels of $15.00, $2.80 and $2.10. Jet Master was $2.20 and $2.10 and Count Flame $2.10 to show.

Pat O'Sullivan And Patty Berg Play For Title

PHILADELPHIA, June 22 (AP)—Pat O'Sullivan, a happy Irish colleen from Orange, Conn., upset medalist Louise Suggs today and went into the finals of the women's Western Open Golf Championship against heavily-favored Patty Berg.

The 23-year-old England amateur, daughter of a Connecticut supreme court justice, startled a gallery of 1,200 by eliminating Miss Suggs, three-time champion from Carrollton, Ga., 4 and 2.

Miss Berg, meanwhile, conquered an attack of putting jitters to oust Marjorie Lindsay, 26-year-old Illinois amateur champion from Decatur, Ill., 5 and 3. After turning all even, the Minneapolis redhead won five of the six holes played on the backside to end matters in a hurry.

The finalist will clash in the 36-hole title match starting at 8:30 a. m. (EST) tomorrow over the 6,660-yard, 38-37—75 Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course.

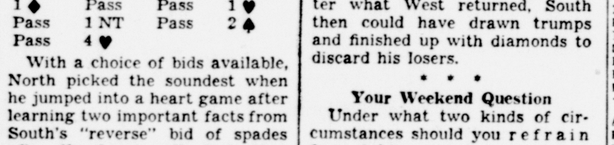
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A TOO COSTLY LUXURY

RUFFING of losers with the dummy's short trumps is such an enjoyable pastime to the indifferent declarer that he indulges in it as if it were the most delectable luxury in the world. It almost seems, to a kibitzer, as if ruffing out losers were the purpose of the game. Veteran players seldom embark on such a plan of action without first inspecting the lineup to see if those losers could be parked on an established or establishable suit after the clearing of trumps.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	Pass	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	1 NT	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	4 ♥

With a choice of bids available, North picked the soundest when he jumped into a heart game after learning two important facts from South's "reverse" bid of spades after the heart call—first, that South had quite a good hand and, second, that he held at least five hearts. He was right in assuming that the side had enough strength for the game, but wrong in reckoning South could give it the right play.

West made the none-too-sound opening of his diamond K, in view of North's No Trump call after the suit had been shown by the opponents. He hastily shifted when he saw the dummy, picking the spade K. South spied a chance to ruff out spade losers, apparently his heart's delight, so led the 2 to the Q. West returned a trump now, his 2, which might have been a sound first lead. Winning with the Q, South ruffed the spade 4 with the heart K, came to his hand with a diamond ruff and ruffed his last spade with the heart 10. Back with another diamond ruff, he cleared trumps, but then had to give up two tricks in clubs to be down one.

A sounder declarer, upon winning the spade K with the A, would have planned to discard losers on diamonds. A heart to the K, followed by the diamond Q, discarding a black card, would have enabled West to score the spade Q for his side's third trick. But that would have been all. No matter what West returned, South then could have drawn trumps and finished up with diamonds to discard his losers.

Local Firm Gets Contract For Road Building Material

The Garland-Norton Petroleum Company, 12-18 West Roberts Street, yesterday morning was awarded the contract on its low bid to supply the country with 180,000 gallons of asphalt for use on county roads.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners gave the contract to the local firm as it quoted prices lower than the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company of Richmond, Va.

Bids on emulsified asphalt were quoted by the local firm at 11.45 cents per gallon by tank truck and 11.75 cents per gallon for cutback asphalt.

Prices Quoted

The prices by tank car were as follows: Delivery at Cumberland, 11.20 cents for emulsified and 11.40 cents for cutback asphalt. Frostburg, 11.45 for emulsified and 11.64 for cutback. Mt. Savage, 11.45 for emulsified and 11.64 for cutback.

Only one bid was received on No. 2, 3, and 4 crushed stone and the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company made the offer. Action on accepting or rejecting this bid was held up several weeks to determine if the quarry at Corriganville where the stone is to be obtained will be in operation by that time.

The local company quoted the following prices:

Delivery by rail to Cumberland, $2.30 per ton; Frostburg, $3.21; Mt. Savage, $3.21 and Westernport, $3.29 per ton. Delivery by truck will be $2.50 for Cumberland; $2.70 for Frostburg; $2.70 for Mt. Savage and $3.29 for Westernport.

Could Use Own Trucks

The bids also quoted a flat $2 per ton if the county used its own trucks to haul the material from the quarry to where it will be used. This seemed to meet the approval of the county commissioners.

The road report for the period covering May 16 to 31 was submitted by J. Walker Chapman, supervisor of the County Roads Department.

He listed expenditures of $11,377.70 with labor costing $6,194.58, materials, $3,099.67 and equipment, $2,083.45.

The report reflects the accelerated road repair program. Work was done in all but a few of the districts of the county. In addition there was work at the county garage and various bridges and on county buildings.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, June 22 (INS) — My friend, Jack Warner, certainly tabbed the right star getting Danny Thomas to play Gus Kahn in "Wish I Had A Girl."

For years Danny has been singing those wonderful Kahn tunes in his night club act — and well, he just Kahn do Gus justice.

He'll be back from New York in two weeks to start the musical with Doris Day.

Danny is my neighbor in Beverly Hills and on my walks around the block we frequently talk over his back fence. Believe me, his cracks about the doings in our home town, which he delivers off the cuff, are every bit as funny as his show material.

Negotiations are on — and don't let anyone tell you they aren't — for Harry Cohn to buy "Exclusive Model" from Jerry Wald and Norman Krasna for Rita Hayworth.

I couldn't be more surprised because Jerry and Norman have just sent a scout to cover the Paris fashion shows for this picture.

But there is no getting around the point that this style story would be a natural for Rita. It would get her back to the "clothes horse" films which were her biggest successes. "Cover Girl," in which she played a model, is considered by many to be the best musical ever made by the soon-to-be-ex-princess.

If Rita were still operating as a Moslem she couldn't do this movie because lady Moslems can't show their legs or figger!

Hedy Lamarr isn't too busy honeymooning with Ted Stauffer and her three children in Carmel to talk business. She's signed a deal with Steve Sekely to star in Molnar's "The Tale Of The Wolf." If they don't sell themselves as a package to one of the major companies, Hedy and Sekely will film it as an independent.

David Belasco produced the Molnar story on the stage years ago. Then Fred and Adele Astaire starred in it as a musical called "Love Letters."

Only Sarah Bernhardt ever "retired" from her career as actively as Hedy is doing.

Silvana Mangano, the shapely Italian beauty whose figure made such a hit in "Bitter Rice," has gained so much weight she's practically out of a career. Only five-feet-four in her stocking feet, the belle now weights around 160 pounds!

She had a baby recently which accounts for some of the weight. But her friends (and agent!) are worried because Silvana isn't doing anything to curb her lusty appetite.

I can sympathize with her. I almost ate myself out of shape in Rome. The food is so delicious.

Long suffered a possible fractured hand when the steering wheel spun around. The damage to the fire truck was a dented right fender.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Are golddiggers really mercenary?

Answer: Not at bottom, maintains Dr. Edmund Bergler. The golddigger is essentially a girl who is incapable of loving anybody. But two things reveal the fact that money is not what she is really after: her propensity for marrying someone who is not as rich as she imagines and her discontent with anything she gets after she has got it. Her real, if unconscious, aim in life is to perpetuate her sense of being refused and rejected, and this is why, when any demand of hers is granted, she immediately makes another, more exacting one.

Are most people conscious of their age?

Answer: Not in any realistic sense, says Dr. G. Kafka in Acta Psychologica. The average person gets a fixed idea of his own age at about 25 and thinks of his friends as of the same age, usually judging new acquaintances to be older than they are. Up to around 40, he feels at home with 25-year-olds, but sees middle age approaching for his contemporaries. At 50 he still feels younger than he is, but cannot understand the way the younger generation appears to have grown up, and does not know how to treat them. As another writer put it: "No one ever feels middle-aged—you feel young until you begin to feel old."

Should a childless wife "work"?

Answer: Certainly — at one thing or another. There is nothing psychologically worse for any woman than to have nothing to do which she feels is worth doing, and few women can spend all their energies in keeping house for themselves and their husbands. The idea that a man's selfrespect will suffer if his wife goes out and works for money is a relic of the past, and usually implies fear of her becoming "independent." But even where this idea persists, a childless wife can find an unpaid job, working for some phase of social welfare.

There is nothing psychologically worse for any woman than to have nothing to do which she feels is worth doing, and few women can spend all their energies in keeping house for themselves and their husbands. The idea that a man's selfrespect will suffer if his wife goes out and works for money is a relic of the past, and usually implies fear of her becoming "independent." But even where this idea persists, a childless wife can find an unpaid job, working for some phase of social welfare.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Point Of Satiety

We are reaching a point of satiety in the matter of horror which will be rather difficult for the authors of horror plays to cope with. The television audience has been exposed so extensively that we simply don't grue any more. A while ago on "Suspense," a blind woman was tortured with lighted cigarets, the actual deed being concealed from the cameras, which permitted your imagination to make it that much worse.

John Crosby

The net effect on my nerves, where this interesting by-play was aimed, was about one-third what it would have been five years ago, one-tenth what it would have been 20 years ago. This follows the graph of Crosby's Law, which, briefly stated, is simply: enough is enough. Quite a lot of mail reaches this desk, expressing dismay at the growth of horror stuff on radio and television. What, these people ask, will this do to our young? Recently, I was told, a youngster of three was gently informed that his grandfather was dead. The boy's response: "Who shot him?"

That's hardly the attitude of reverence and grief that grandfather would have expected, but it's a natural one. We're all getting a little jaded with homicide; we're so accustomed to the violent that it's inconceivable anyone could die in bed of simple old age. The medicine has to be stronger and stronger to hold our interest at all, much less horrify us, and eventually people will be driven to Morey Amsterdam out of sheer desperation and, believe me, that's desperation.

The other night the Robert Montgomery show (NBC-TV 9:30 p. m. EDT Mondays) was devoted to the tale of a man who wanted to kill his wife, a thought that must have passed through everyone's mind from time to time. The gentleman rigged up a time bomb in his cellar, one big enough to blow the house to bits, and was about to tiptoe out the door when a couple of burglars, intent on robbing the joint, put the slug on him and tied him to a post in the cellar. And there he was with his own bomb and lots of time (an hour and ten minutes before the thing went off) to think things over.

Mr. Montgomery, who acted as narrator, plunged in at this point to describe what was passing through the tormented man's mind. ("Please, God, I'll never do it again—if I can just get out of this.") All sorts of people happened along. Man's wife came home with the man he had thought was her lover but who turned out to be her scapegrace brother. They went to a movie. A little girl saw him through the cellar window but couldn't call her mother's attention to him. The gas man stopped by, rang the doorbell and went away. People telephoned.

And Mr. Montgomery droned on and on with what seemed unnecessary relish about the irony of it all. (Irony is getting a heavy play these days.) It should have been suspenseful; it succeeded only in being interminable. An hour and ten minutes—and it seemed at least that long—is a long time to wait to see some one blown to bits, especially since the same story has been on TV before and I knew the man wasn't going to be. The infernal machine never went off; the man went mad, instead. Irony, you know.

Edgar Allan Poe would have a rough time of it today. He stood alone, or almost alone, in this particular field. Today the audience is a little too wise and much too callous to give a damn. This is driving the writers to greater and greater flights of ingenuity to raise the hair on the back of my neck. They'll find it a tough job.

The last time I was properly horrified was when the mental patients at the Boston Psychopathic Hospital voted Milton Berle their favorite television star. Then I looked at the ratings and found that the rest of the country voted him the same honor, and I fell to wondering about the sanity of the rest of us, about who belongs up in that hospital and who should be permitted to roam the streets. Don't get to thinking about it. That way lies madness.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear Husband, John "Shorty" Whetstone, who died One year ago today, June 23, 1950.

One long and lonely year has passed
Since my great sorrow fell,
The shock that I received that day,
Will always with me dwell.
Your smile has gone forever,
And your hands I cannot touch,
I will always keep the memory,
Of the boy I loved so much.

One who will never forget,
His wife, Phyllis.

In sad but loving memory of our husband and father, Wolford Pirando, whose life was claimed by a mine accident 2 years ago today, June 23, 1949.

Altho two years have slowly passed,
I will remember when I saw him last,
Those last few words seem to hum a tune,
Especially in this day in June,
Our home's no longer bright and fair,
It's just a house with a vacant chair,
And only a grave that still needs care,
And I who have known and loved him,
Whose passing has brought me sad tears,
Will carry his memory always,
To brighten the drifting years.

Madge and Children

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, John R. Whetstone, who passed away one year ago, June 23, 1950.

No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered, since you left us
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear Jack,
That we do not think of you.

Sadly missed by,
Dad, Mother and Brothers

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear Husband, John "Shorty" Whetstone, who died One year ago today, June 23, 1950.

One long and lonely year has passed
Since my great sorrow fell,
The shock that I received that day,
Will always with me dwell.
Your smile has gone forever,
And your hands I cannot touch,
I will always keep the memory,
Of the boy I loved so much.

One who will never forget,
His wife, Phyllis.

In sad but loving memory of our husband and father, Wolford Pirando, whose life was claimed by a mine accident 2 years ago today, June 23, 1949.

Altho two years have slowly passed,
I will remember when I saw him last,
Those last few words seem to hum a tune,
Especially in this day in June,
Our home's no longer bright and fair,
It's just a house with a vacant chair,
And only a grave that still needs care,
And I who have known and loved him,
Whose passing has brought me sad tears,
Will carry his memory always,
To brighten the drifting years.

Madge and Children

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, John R. Whetstone, who passed away one year ago, June 23, 1950.

No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered, since you left us
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear Jack,
That we do not think of you.

Sadly missed by,
Dad, Mother and Brothers

Stock Market Prices Sink Under Weight Of Selling

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—The weight of selling was just too heavy for the stock market to bear today, and prices sank.

Oils, rubbers, motors, steels, rails and chemicals all were lower, and there was a long list of issues establishing new lows for the year.

Chrysler was a prime target and closed off 1⅞ at 67½, the seventh most active issue.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 80 cents and stood at $91.40 with the industrial component down $1.30, rails 50 cents and utilities 10 cents. The average now stands only $2 above the lowest point of the year.

The volume of business came to 1,340,000 shares, the biggest, market of the week although well under the daily average for the year of a little under 1,700,000 shares. Yesterday the total was 1,100,000 shares.

Although volume was greater today, the number of individual issues appearing on the quotations tape was smaller—1,095 issues today as against 1,104 yesterday. Of these 188 advanced and 655 declined.

There was a marked expansion in the number of new lows reached during the day—130—biggest in a month. There were only two new highs, American Viscose and Glidden.

Southern Co., holding company for four southern utilities, topped the most active list unchanged at 11⅛ with 35,100 shares traded.

Electric & Musical Industries traded in one block of 10,000 shares ended the second most active issue up ⅛ at 2⅛.

There were only two other issues closing higher in the list of 15 most active. They were Avco Mfg. up ⅛ at 7⅛, and United Corp. up ⅛ at 4⅝.

Stock Market Prices Sink Under Weight Of Selling

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—The weight of selling was just too heavy for the stock market to bear today, and prices sank.

Oils, rubbers, motors, steels, rails and chemicals all were lower, and there was a long list of issues establishing new lows for the year.

Chrysler was a prime target and closed off 1⅞ at 67½, the seventh most active issue.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 80 cents and stood at $91.40 with the industrial component down $1.30, rails 50 cents and utilities 10 cents. The average now stands only $2 above the lowest point of the year.

The volume of business came to 1,340,000 shares, the biggest, market of the week although well under the daily average for the year of a little under 1,700,000 shares. Yesterday the total was 1,100,000 shares.

Although volume was greater today, the number of individual issues appearing on the quotations tape was smaller—1,095 issues today as against 1,104 yesterday. Of these 188 advanced and 655 declined.

There was a marked expansion in the number of new lows reached during the day—130—biggest in a month. There were only two new highs, American Viscose and Glidden.

Southern Co., holding company for four southern utilities, topped the most active list unchanged at 11⅛ with 35,100 shares traded.

Electric & Musical Industries traded in one block of 10,000 shares ended the second most active issue up ⅛ at 2⅛.

There were only two other issues closing higher in the list of 15 most active. They were Avco Mfg. up ⅛ at 7⅛, and United Corp. up ⅛ at 4⅝.

Over 35,000 Witness Colorful Revue Staged By Fire Fighters

Parade Takes Two Hours To Pass

A true holiday spirit prevailed in the Queen City last night during the mammoth two-hour street parade climaxing the 59th annual State Firemen's Association Convention.

Police estimated that some 35,000 people lined the thoroughfares along the route of march and watched the high stepping majorettes, the precision drilling of fire companies, the colorfully dressed veteran units and auxiliaries marching to the snappy military music of the bands.

The parade afforded the people of Tri State Area a first hand picture of the latest in fire fighting and rescue equipment. Probably one of the most fully equipped trucks was that of the Riverdale Fire Department.

One Of City's Largest

Last night's parade was one of the largest to be staged in Cumberland in recent years with 10 divisions including about 140 units participating. In the procession were 51 uniformed fire companies, 49 fire trucks, 15 bands, four drum and bugle corps, and 10 auxiliary units, not to mention "Buck" Dreyer and his rescue equipment.

Excitement ran high as the paraders marched through the streets to the thrilling music of the drums, bass horns and other brass instruments.

Prizes Awarded

Prize money awarded in the parade which passed the judges stand located on the corner of Union and Park Streets amounted to $1,225 according to John Pritchard, general parade chairman.

In the group of Maryland Fire Companies, Frostburg took $100 for the fire company making the best appearance, with 16 or more men in uniform; Lonaconing won $50 for the fire company making second best appearance, with 16 or more men in uniform; Frostburg also won $75 for the fire company with most uniformed men in line of march. North Beach won $100 for the fire company coming the longest distance and also won $100 for the Fire Company with the best appearing apparatus.

In the Band and Drum Corps Division the Arion Band of Frostburg, won $100 for the best senior band in the parade, Lonaconing won $50 for second best senior band, Allegany High School was awarded $100 for best High School Junior Band; Saxton, Pa. $50 for second best High School or Junior Band; Somerset, Pa. $100 for the best Drum and Bugle Corps, and Meyersdale, Pa., was awarded $50 for second best Drum and Bugle Corps.

Westminster Wins

Westminster won $100 for the best appearing Maryland Ladies Auxiliary Unit with 12 or more in line of march, Hamstead, Pa. won $50 for the auxiliary with the most in line of march and $50 for the auxiliary coming the longest distance.

For out of state fire companies Somerset, Pa. won $50 for the fire company making best appearance with 16 or more men in uniform and Conemaugh, Pa. was awarded $100 for the fire company coming the longest distance with 16 or more men in uniform in line of march.

Judges at last night's parade were Dr. W. E. Capaldi, chairman, Joseph M. Fradiska, Harry Malcolm, Harry K. Poling, Edgar Reynolds, Randolph Millholland and A. C. Howard.

It took some two hours for the colorful cavalcade to pass Baltimore Street as the line of march was broken several times to allow trains to pass over the Baltimore Street railroad crossing.

Two-Year-Old McCoole Child Killed By Train

Baby Cut In Half By W. Md. Passenger

Tragedy struck a McCoole family late yesterday afternoon when a small child was run over by a Western Maryland Railway passenger train. Leonard Earl Droll, one year and eleven month old son of Mrs. Grace Lambert Droll, McCoole, had been playing near his home with an older brother and sister when the accident occured.

Engineer A. B. Lantz, Elkins, W. Va., was on his regular run from Elkins to Cumberland with Passenger Train No. 4 and was approaching McCoole station at 6:15 p. m. (DST) when the tragic mishap took place. Immediately after the small child was struck he applied the air and the locomotive came to a stop in about two lengths.

Was at Play

Little Leonard, who lived across from the Glass Service Station in McCoole, between the Potomac River and the main line of the Western Maryland Railway, was reported to have been at play with his brother Robert and sister Dolores. The other two managed to cross the track safely but the younger Droll child crawled into the path of the oncoming locomotive.

Three other children survive, including Joseph Jr., Ronald, and Lillian Droll. Yesterday's accident is being probed by Maryland State Police Lt. William E. O'Hara and Trooper Milton Hart in cooperation with Lt. Clark of the Western Maryland Railway Police.

The body of the child is at Boal's Funeral Home, Westernport.

Piedmont Child Hurt

A Piedmont child suffered a fractured thigh and pelvis injury and was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., after being struck by an automobile on Ashfield Street yesterday about 4:45 p. m. DST.

Kay Eisler, four-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mildred Wagoner Eisler, 118 Ashfield Street, Piedmont, darted from between two parked cars across from her home according to a report and ran into the path of an automobile driven by George W. Daddysman, Philos Avenue, Westernport. A taxi driver following the Daddysman car and other witnesses said the child darted out from behind the cars, unseen.

Police Chief James Harrison of Piedmont is investigating.

Judge Allows Use Of Street

A dispute between two Frederick Street neighbors has been settled by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court by refusing to grant an injunction to keep one neighbor from using part of a street claimed by the other.

James S. Helman and Maude S. Helman, his wife, 635 Frederick Street, had filed an equity suit against Harry B. Naugle and Henrietta Naugle, his wife, 701 Frederick Street, asking for an injunction to prevent the Naugles from driving their automobile over property owned by the Helmans.

A blind alley designated as Victoria Street lies between the property of the two neighbors. Each purchased 20 feet of the 40-foot strip nearest his home.

In a memorandum filed in the case, Judge Harris cited that William H. Mareen, acting city engineer, testified that his office considers Victoria Street as a "public thoroughfare." He also wrote that the defendants operate a hand laundry in a building to the rear of their house and that many of their 100 customers use Victoria Street in driving their automobiles to the laundry.

Judge Harris concluded his memorandum by stating that the Naugles "shall continue to use Victoria Street as a street." He also entered an order denying the plea for an injunction.

Attorney Thomas B. Finan represented the Helmans and Attorney W. Earle Cobey the Naugles.

Record Rain Hits Hancock Area

A heavy rain and thunderstorm lasting for an hour and a half hit the Hancock area yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock resulting in an inch and one tenth of rainfall within an hour.

A motorist journeying to Cumberland from that area reported he had to pull off the road twice since his windshield wiper was unable to cope with the downpour. Other motorists were stranded along the highway for an hour or more. No damage was reported by State Roads officials except for some dirt and rock which washed from the hillside.

Orchards and gardens in the immediate area received no alarming damage according to reports, although the sudden rain storm was one of the worst in some time.

City Buys Catch Basin Cleaner

The Mayor and Council yesterday morning passed an order accepting a $7,400 bid for a catch basin cleaner for the use of the Street Department.

The bid was submitted by the Netco Division of the Clark-Wilcox Company, of Boston, Mass. Specifications called for an open steel cab, with an 8 foot 10 inch boom and an orange peel bucket with one and one-half foot capacity.

The air operated mechanism will be mounted on a city truck and is slated to speed up the work of cleaning catch basins in the city's storm sewage system.

Bids were opened yesterday and referred to Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, for two trucks needed for that department.

The St. George Motor Company was the sole bidder for one 1½ ton cab and chassis and for one 3-ton dump truck.

Price quoted for the first was $1,696.84 for a six cylinder model Ford truck, with $35 additional for an eight cylinder model. The firm submitted a $5,569.78 bid for the three ton dump truck. Delivery was promised in 20 and 10 days.

McElfish Heads Electrical Union

J. R. McElfish was elected president of Local 307, International Association of Electricians (AFL), at the biennial election held last night in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Other officers of the local are Robert Klinger, vice president; Paul Cottom, treasurer; Luther Hite, recording secretary; Edgar Kegg, financial secretary, and George W. Lucas, business manager.

The installation of officers will be held July 13 and will be followed by a social hour.

PARADE—There were so many colorful units and such a variety of fire-fighting equipment and rescue vehicles in last night's two-hour long parade staged by visiting firemen, that the cameraman didn't know which to select for his pictures. So he furnished the above view of what a parade looks like from the drivers' cab of a visiting fire truck. At the left is a typical scene along the four-mile parade route from South Cumberland throughout the uptown area. These youngsters waited patiently, enjoying their popcorn for a couple of hours, and as the fire truck went by with sirens wide open, forgot about the popcorn completely. Police estimated that more than 35,000 people witnessed the parade which brought to Cumberland the greatest display of fire engines and fire fighting personnel, auxiliary units, bands and drum corps seen here in many years. New Traffic Plan Is Criticized Sharply By City Commissioners

Mrs. Roeder, Buchholtz, Tederick Call For Return Of Walk Lights

Open opposition to the elimination of walk lights on Baltimore Street broke out among members of the City Council yesterday, less than two weeks after the traffic change was placed into effect here.

The sharpest criticism of the walk with traffic plan was voiced by Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, who said the city needs no more time to consider the "traffic light experiment."

Equally positive criticism was voiced by Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, who called for the return of at least one walk light to every two traffic changes, and by Commissioner George H. Tederick who said traffic is not being speeded and that safety has been "thrown out the window."

Mrs. Roeder's statement follows:

Cites Confusion

"I do not believe the city needs any more time on the "traffic light experiment" on Baltimore Street to prove results or lack of results.

"As one member of the City Council, I believe it has resulted in negligible increase in flow of traffic —but immeasurable increase in confusion of pedestrians and motorists alike. Certainly no one can say we are not all trying to cooperate. Wildly gesticulating policemen, scrambling pedestrians, and screaming brakes will testify to this fact.

"However, it is the policemen who bear the severest brunt of this unworkable experiment. It is obvious they feel their responsibility keenly and so hour after hour they move about, trying desperately to keep pedestrian and motorist safe and yet moving in one of several directions. They also listen hour after hour to disgruntled pedestrians and screaming brakes and witness many bare mishaps.

"The pedestrians and motorists are now more dependent on the policemen than on the lights. The new system cannot work in my estimation, as long as we have left turns on Baltimore Street. It couldn't even work if we had no left turns because there would be immediate bottlenecks of traffic on the side streets. What is the use of it working anyway for a few blocks, when the real tie-up comes at the railroad crossings.

"Personally, I am glad to see lots of movement on the railroad tracks; it means business and lots of people at work.

"I cannot see how synchronized lights can be meaningfull when we have short and long blocks. Synchronization is not city wide anyway and I am told cannot be city wide. The several approaches to the city have a different timing, so what preparation is this for what you will find downtown.

"We were told one reason we should have this new system is because most other cities have it. This is probably the poorest reason of all for the change.

"The system we have here will be best for us and for outsiders if it is related to Cumberland, its problems and its facilities."

"I haven't yet mentioned the hazards resulting from the change. All you need to understand this is to stand a while at the corner of North Centre Street and Baltimore Street. There you will see scrambling pedestrians, wildly gesticulating policemen and you will hear the screaming of brakes of the motorists.

"Pedestrians breath a sigh of relief when they have reached the opposite side of the street. Motorists who have been driving for years dislike to drive on Baltimore Street. Many people are inclined to jay walk and thus avoid the confusion at the crossings. Children alone are not safe any longer at the crossings.

"Old people and crippled people hate to risk the speed and hazards at the crossings. All of this merely to see how fast we can help motorists move for four blocks.

"A solution—one walk light at least, would keep every one moving, everyone would be safe and happier and the seven or eight policemen could be released for another form of activity."

Wants Walk Light

Commissioner Buchholtz said that he had made no comment on the traffic change originally, feeling that the plan should be given a trial before it was turned down.

"Now that the plan has been in operation for almost two weeks," Commissioner Buchholtz added, "I am convinced we should put the walk lights back, at least to the extent of one walk light to each two traffic changes."

Such a plan, he added, would not mean sacrificing the safety of pedestrians and might even speed up the traffic flow considerably since vehicles would be able to make full use of the green lights.

A return to a walk light system, he declared, would also relieve the Police Department from the heavy burden imposed upon it by the new plan, adding that half of the six men now needed for continuous duty on Baltimore Street could be relieved and placed on regular police duties.

Reiterates Opposition

Commissioner Tederick, who opposed the new system at a special meeting of the Mayor and Council on June 7, declared yesterday that he must again take a stand against it.

He commented that the plan is working fairly well as far as vehicular traffic is concerned but declared that traffic is not being speeded by the system.

"Safety", he declared, "is out the window".

"I am still against doing without

Liberty Trust To Hold Open House Tuesday

Two-Day Formal Showing Announced

The Liberty Trust Company, corner of Baltimore and Centre Streets, will hold its formal opening and open house Tuesday and Wednesday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock to celebrate completion of the new banking room. Souvenirs will be distributed. The public is invited.

The remodeling program began more than a year ago and the entire first floor was dismantled and rebuilt. The lobby was extended 35 feet with a new entrance provided from the elevator lobby of the building. Additional safe deposit boxes were installed with a new vault which now contains approximately 1700 safe deposit boxes. Nine air conditioned coupon booths were put in for use of safe deposit customers.

Scenic Murals On Walls

Four large murals have been placed on the west wall of the banking room showing a scene along the B & O Railroad, the Celanese plant, the Kelly-Springfield Tire plant and a view of Lovers Leap and the Narrows. The entire banking quarters are air conditioned, and has an acoustical ceiling.

The bookkeeping and clerical departments have been moved to the remodeled second floor. Teller windows on the first floor were extended so that now there are nine commercial teller windows, eight commercial loan windows, two for savings, two for Christmas Club, two for personal loan payments, and additional windows for register checks, travelers checks, U. S. Savings Bonds, safe deposit and statements. On the second floor, a director's room and lounge rooms for the employees are provided.

Organized In 1920

The contractor on the job was George F. Hazelwood Company, and the new banking quarters was designed by The Bank Building and Equipment Corporation, St. Louis, Mo.

The Liberty Trust Company was organized in 1920 when the banking room of the Third National Bank was remodeled and enlarged to accommodate the new institution. In the past 30 years the bank has grown steadily and assets have increased from approximately $4.500,000 to approximately $21,000,000.

In December 1948, the bank merged with the Peoples Bank on North Liberty Street which continued to operate as a branch office of the Liberty Trust Company until June 18, 1951, when all of the banking services were transferred to the office on Baltimore Street.

Employing a total of 52 persons, the bank has every modern banking service available. It also has approximately 650 stockholders and a 15-member board of directors. The company has a branch office in Lonaconing for the convenience of Georges Creek residents.

Jap Beetles Likely Soon

If the weather remains hot for a few days, residents of Allegany County can expect to see hundreds of Japanese beetles in another week, Hugh Stevenson, who is in charge of Japanese beetle control in this county, reported yesterday.

Only one beetle has been seen so far by inspectors.

Residents are advised not to wait until they see Japanese beetles before doing something to curb them. They can be destroyed early in the season by spraying the home orchard, favored food plants around the home, the fence rows and edges of woods.

Copies of a fact sheet on control of the Japanese beetles can be obtained at the county agent's office in the Court House. These give detailed advice.

This sheet notes that spraying with DDT, benzene hexachloride, DDD, Methoxychlor, Dieldrin, Aldrin, Toxaphene, or Chlordane will kill Japanese beetles. DDT has been tested thoroughly and found to be effective for killing Japanese beetles when applied properly. Spraying gives more lasting results than dusting.

Weather

Yesterday was a warm, cloudy and humid day. The sun forced through for a few hours in the morning but disappeared in the afternoon. A rain shower fell about 1:30 p. m. Constitution Park's weather station reported a high of 86 degrees, a low of 63 and at 11 p. m. the thermometer read 73 degrees. Over 35,000 Witness Colorful Revue Staged By Fire Fighters

Parade Takes Two Hours To Pass

A true holiday spirit prevailed in the Queen City last night during the mammoth two-hour street parade climaxing the 59th annual State Firemen's Association Convention.

Police estimated that some 35,000 people lined the thoroughfares along the route of march and watched the high stepping majorettes, the precision drilling of fire companies, the colorfully dressed veteran units and auxiliaries marching to the snappy military music of the bands.

The parade afforded the people of Tri State Area a first hand picture of the latest in fire fighting and rescue equipment. Probably one of the most fully equipped trucks was that of the Riverdale Fire Department.

One Of City's Largest

Last night's parade was one of the largest to be staged in Cumberland in recent years with 10 divisions including about 140 units participating. In the procession were 51 uniformed fire companies, 49 fire trucks, 15 bands, four drum and bugle corps, and 10 auxiliary units, not to mention "Buck" Dreyer and his rescue equipment.

Excitement ran high as the paraders marched through the streets to the thrilling music of the drums, bass horns and other brass instruments.

Prize money awarded in the parade which passed the judges stand located on the corner of Union and Park Streets amounted to $1,225 according to John Pritchard, general parade chairman.

In the group of Maryland Fire Companies, Frostburg took $100 for the fire company making the best appearance, with 16 or more men in uniform; Lonaconing won $50 for the fire company making second best appearance, with 16 or more men in uniform; Frostburg also won $75 for the fire company with most uniformed men in line of march, North Beach won $100 for the fire company coming the longest distance and also won $100 for the Fire Company with the best appearing apparatus.

Judges at last night's parade were Dr. W. E. Capaldi, chairman, Joseph M. Fradiska, Harry Malcolm, Harry K. Poling, Edgar Reynolds, Randolph Millholland and A. C. Howard.

It took some two hours for the colorful cavalcade to pass Baltimore Street as the line of march was broken several times to allow trains to pass over the Baltimore Street railroad crossing.

Two-Year-Old McCoole Child Killed By Train

Baby Cut In Half By W. Md. Passenger

Tragedy struck a McCoole family late yesterday afternoon when a small child was run over by a Western Maryland Railway passenger train. Leonard Earl Droll, one year and eleven month old son of Mrs. Grace Lambert Droll, McCoole, had been playing near his home with an older brother and sister when the accident occured.

Engineer A. B. Lantz, Elkins, W. Va., was on his regular run from Elkins to Cumberland with Passenger Train No. 4 and was approaching McCoole station at 6:15 p. m. (DST) when the tragic mishap took place. Immediately after the small child was struck he applied the air and the locomotive came to a stop in about two lengths.

Was at Play

Little Leonard, who lived across from the Glass Service Station in McCoole, between the Potomac River and the main line of the Western Maryland Railway, was reported to have been at play with his brother Robert and sister Dolores. The other two managed to cross the track safely but the younger Droll child crawled into the path of the oncoming locomotive.

Three other children survive, including Joseph Jr., Ronald, and Lillian Droll. Yesterday's accident is being probed by Maryland State Police Lt. William E. O'Hara and Trooper Milton Hart in cooperation with Lt. Clark of the Western Maryland Railway Police.

The body of the child is at Boal's Funeral Home, Westernport.

Piedmont Child Hurt

A Piedmont child suffered a fractured thigh and pelvis injury and was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., after being struck by an automobile on Ashfield Street yesterday about 4:45 p. m. DST.

Kay Eisler, four-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mildred Wagoner Eisler, 118 Ashfield Street, Piedmont, darted from between two parked cars across from her home according to a report and ran into the path of an automobile driven by George W. Daddysman, Philos Avenue, Westernport. A taxi driver following the Daddysman car and other witnesses said the child darted out from behind the cars, unseen.

Police Chief James Harrison of Piedmont is investigating.

Judge Allows Use Of Street

A dispute between two Frederick Street neighbors has been settled by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court by refusing to grant an injunction to keep one neighbor from using part of a street claimed by the other.

James S. Helman and Maude S. Helman, his wife, 635 Frederick Street, had filed an equity suit against Harry B. Naugle and Henrietta Naugle, his wife, 701 Frederick Street, asking for an injunction to prevent the Naugles from driving their automobile over property owned by the Helmans.

A blind alley designated as Victoria Street lies between the property of the two neighbors. Each purchased 20 feet of the 40-foot strip nearest his home.

In a memorandum filed in the case, Judge Harris cited that William H. Mareen, acting city engineer, testified that his office considers Victoria Street as a "public thoroughfare." He also wrote that the defendants operate a hand laundry in a building to the rear of their house and that many of their 100 customers use Victoria Street in driving their automobiles to the laundry.

Judge Harris concluded his memorandum by stating that the Naugles "shall continue to use Victoria Street as a street." He also entered an order denying the plea for an injunction.

Attorney Thomas B. Finan represented the Helmans and Attorney W. Earle Cobey the Naugles.

Record Rain Hits Hancock Area

A heavy rain and thunderstorm lasting for an hour and a half hit the Hancock area yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock resulting in an inch and one tenth of rainfall within an hour.

A motorist journeying to Cumberland from that area reported he had to pull off the road twice since his windshield wiper was unable to cope with the downpour. Other motorists were stranded along the highway for an hour or more. No damage was reported by State Roads officials except for some dirt and rock which washed from the hillside.

Orchards and gardens in the immediate area received no alarming damage according to reports, although the sudden rain storm was one of the worst in some time.

City Buys Catch Basin Cleaner

The Mayor and Council yesterday morning passed an order accepting a $7,400 bid for a catch basin cleaner for the use of the Street Department.

The bid was submitted by the Netco Division of the Clark-Wilcox Company, of Boston, Mass. Specifications called for an open steel cab, with an 8 foot 10 inch boom and an orange peel bucket with one and one-half foot capacity.

The air operated mechanism will be mounted on a city truck and is slated to speed up the work of cleaning catch basins in the city's storm sewage system.

Bids were opened yesterday and referred to Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, for two trucks needed for that department.

The St. George Motor Company was the sole bidder for one 1½ ton cab and chassis and for one 3-ton dump truck.

Price quoted for the first was $1,696.84 for a six cylinder model Ford truck, with $35 additional for an eight cylinder model. The firm submitted a $5,569.78 bid for the three ton dump truck. Delivery was promised in 20 and 10 days.

McElfish Heads Electrical Union

J. R. McElfish was elected president of Local 307, International Association of Electricians (AFL), at the biennial election held last night in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Other officers of the local are Robert Klinger, vice president; Paul Cottom, treasurer; Luther Hite, recording secretary; Edgar Kegg, financial secretary, and George W. Lucas, business manager.

The installation of officers will be held July 13 and will be followed by a social hour.

PARADE—There were so many colorful units and such a variety of fire-fighting equipment and rescue vehicles in last night's two-hour long parade staged by visiting firemen, that the cameraman didn't know which to select for his pictures. So he furnished the above view of what a parade looks like from the drivers' cab of a visiting fire truck. At the left is a typical scene along the four-mile parade route from South Cumberland throughout the uptown area. These youngsters waited patiently, enjoying their popcorn for a couple of hours, and as the fire truck went by with sirens wide open, forgot about the popcorn completely. Police estimated that more than 35,000 people witnessed the parade which brought to Cumberland the greatest display of fire engines and fire fighting personnel, auxiliary units, bands and drum corps seen here in many years. New Traffic Plan Is Criticized Sharply By City Commissioners

Mrs. Roeder, Buchholtz, Tederick Call For Return Of Walk Lights

Open opposition to the elimination of walk lights on Baltimore Street broke out among members of the City Council yesterday, less than two weeks after the traffic change was placed into effect here.

The sharpest criticism of the walk with traffic plan was voiced by Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, who said the city needs no more time to consider the "traffic light experiment."

Equally positive criticism was voiced by Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, who called for the return of at least one walk light to every two traffic changes, and by Commissioner George H. Tederick who said traffic is not being speeded and that safety has been "thrown out the window."

Mrs. Roeder's statement follows:

Cites Confusion

"I do not believe the city needs any more time on the "traffic light experiment" on Baltimore Street to prove results or lack of results.

"As one member of the City Council, I believe it has resulted in negligible increase in flow of traffic —but immeasurable increase in confusion of pedestrians and motorists alike. Certainly no one can say we are not all trying to cooperate. Wildly gesticulating policemen, scrambling pedestrians, and screaming brakes will testify to this fact.

"However, it is the policemen who bear the severest brunt of this unworkable experiment. It is obvious they feel their responsibility keenly and so hour after hour they move about, trying desperately to keep pedestrian and motorist safe and yet moving in one of several directions. They also listen hour after hour to disgruntled pedestrians and screaming brakes and witness many bare mishaps.

"The pedestrians and motorists are now more dependent on the policemen than on the lights. The new system cannot work in my estimation, as long as we have left turns on Baltimore Street. It couldn't even work if we had no left turns because there would be immediate bottlenecks of traffic on the side streets. What is the use of it working anyway for a few blocks, when the real tie-up comes at the railroad crossings.

"Personally, I am glad to see lots of movement on the railroad tracks; it means business and lots of people at work.

"I cannot see how synchronized lights can be meaningfull when we have short and long blocks. Synchronization is not city wide anyway and I am told cannot be city wide. The several approaches to the city have a different timing, so what preparation is this for what you will find downtown.

"We were told one reason we should have this new system is because most other cities have it. This is probably the poorest reason of all for the change.

"The system we have here will be best for us and for outsiders if it is related to Cumberland, its problems and its facilities."

"I haven't yet mentioned the hazards resulting from the change. All you need to understand this is to stand a while at the corner of North Centre Street and Baltimore Street. There you will see scrambling pedestrians, wildly gesticulating policemen and you will hear the screaming of brakes of the motorists.

"Pedestrians breath a sigh of relief when they have reached the opposite side of the street. Motorists who have been driving for years dislike to drive on Baltimore Street. Many people are inclined to jay walk and thus avoid the confusion at the crossings. Children alone are not safe any longer at the crossings.

"Old people and crippled people hate to risk the speed and hazards at the crossings. All of this merely to see how fast we can help motorists move for four blocks.

"A solution—one walk light at least, would keep every one moving, everyone would be safe and happier and the seven or eight policemen could be released for another form of activity."

Wants Walk Light

Commissioner Buchholtz said that he had made no comment on the traffic change originally, feeling that the plan should be given a trial before it was turned down.

"Now that the plan has been in operation for almost two weeks," Commissioner Buchholtz added, "I am convinced we should put the walk lights back, at least to the extent of one walk light to each two traffic changes."

Such a plan, he added, would not mean sacrificing the safety of pedestrians and might even speed up the traffic flow considerably since vehicles would be able to make full use of the green lights.

A return to a walk light system, he declared, would also relieve the Police Department from the heavy burden imposed upon it by the new plan, adding that half of the six men now needed for continuous duty on Baltimore Street could be relieved and placed on regular police duties.

Reiterates Opposition

Commissioner Tederick, who opposed the new system at a special meeting of the Mayor and Council on June 7, declared yesterday that he must again take a stand against it.

He commented that the plan is working fairly well as far as vehicular traffic is concerned but declared that traffic is not being speeded by the system.

"Safety", he declared, "is out the window".

"I am still against doing without

Liberty Trust To Hold Open House Tuesday

Two-Day Formal Showing Announced

The Liberty Trust Company, corner of Baltimore and Centre Streets, will hold its formal opening and open house Tuesday and Wednesday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock to celebrate completion of the new banking room. Souvenirs will be distributed. The public is invited.

The remodeling program began more than a year ago and the entire first floor was dismantled and rebuilt. The lobby was extended 35 feet with a new entrance provided from the elevator lobby of the building. Additional safe deposit boxes were installed with a new vault which now contains approximately 1700 safe deposit boxes. Nine air conditioned coupon booths were put in for use of safe deposit customers.

Scenic Murals On Walls

Four large murals have been placed on the west wall of the banking room showing a scene along the B & O Railroad, the Celanese plant, the Kelly-Springfield Tire plant and a view of Lovers Leap and the Narrows. The entire banking quarters are air conditioned, and has an acoustical ceiling.

The bookkeeping and clerical departments have been moved to the remodeled second floor. Teller windows on the first floor were extended so that now there are nine commercial teller windows, eight commercial loan windows, two for savings, two for Christmas Club, two for personal loan payments, and additional windows for register checks, travelers checks, U. S. Savings Bonds, safe deposit and statements. On the second floor, a director's room and lounge rooms for the employees are provided.

Organized In 1920

The contractor on the job was George F. Hazelwood Company, and the new banking quarters was designed by The Bank Building and Equipment Corporation, St. Louis, Mo.

The Liberty Trust Company was organized in 1920 when the banking room of the Third National Bank was remodeled and enlarged to accommodate the new institution. In the past 30 years the bank has grown steadily and assets have increased from approximately $4,500,000 to approximately $21,000,000.

In December 1948, the bank merged with the Peoples Bank on North Liberty Street which continued to operate as a branch office of the Liberty Trust Company until June 18, 1951, when all of the banking services were transferred to the office on Baltimore Street.

Employing a total of 52 persons, the bank has every modern banking service available. It also has approximately 650 stockholders and a 15-member board of directors. The company has a branch office in Lonaconing for the convenience of Georges Creek residents.

Jap Beetles Likely Soon

If the weather remains hot for a few days, residents of Allegany County can expect to see hundreds of Japanese beetles in another week, Hugh Stevenson, who is in charge of Japanese beetle control in this county, reported yesterday.

Only one beetle has been seen so far by inspectors.

Residents are advised not to wait until they see Japanese beetles before doing something to curb them. They can be destroyed early in the season by spraying the home orchard, favored food plants around the home, the fence rows and edges of woods.

Copies of a fact sheet on control of the Japanese beetles can be obtained at the county agent's office in the Court House. These give detailed advice.

This sheet notes that spraying with DDT, benzene hexachloride, DDD, Methoxychlor, Dieldrin, Aldrin, Toxaphene, or Chlordane will kill Japanese beetles. DDT has been tested thoroughly and found to be effective for killing Japanese beetles when applied properly. Spraying gives more lasting results than dusting.

Weather

Yesterday was a warm, cloudy and humid day. The sun forced through for a few hours in the morning but disappeared in the afternoon. A rain shower fell about 1:30 p. m. Constitution Park's weather station reported a high of 86 degrees, a low of 63 and at 11 p. m. the thermometer read 73 degrees. Today's forecast predicts a day like yesterday, mostly cloudy, warm and humid with showers and thunderstorms.
